New principal excited about ACHS's vision

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community High School board has hired Dr. James Love to serve as the school's new principal.

Love will replace former principal Dr. Susan Mullendore who resigned to accept a position at Muncie Central High School in Indiana.

Love has worked at Lyons Township High School for 21 years, the past six years as an assistant principal. He has started to work in Antioch and expects to move his family to the district soon.

School Superintendent Dr. Dennis Hockney said, "I am really enthusiastic about having Dr. Love as our new principal. He brings an enthusiasm about students and faculty, curriculum and community, that I believe will be contagious to all with whom he interacts."

"I was very impressed with Dr. Hockney and the interview committee," Love said. He said the interview committee conveyed a sense of enthusiasm, professionalism, and dedication that appealed to him.

"I'm very impressed with the vision statement about where they want to go," Love said. "They have the vision and goals to make Antioch Community High School the best it can be."

Love was one of 50 applicants. The interview process took place in the final three weeks of June and involved the superintendent, Dr. Dennis Hockney, teachers, support staff instructional leaders, administrators, and parents.

Love is a parent himself. He is married to Jeanne, and they have a son, Jason, 14, who will be a freshman at ACHS, and a daughter, Jennifer, 11, who will attend sixth grade. He is looking forward to living in the area and says that the area is a good place to live and raise a family.

Love was previously a teacher of advanced psychology and U.S. history as well as a coach for boys and girls tennis at Lyons Township High School.

He received his doctorate in educational administration from Northern Illinois University in May, 1996.

Love told the school that he is "excited about joining the staff of Antioch Community High School. The goals and vision statement developed by the district demonstrate a sincere commitment to the success of all students. I look forward to working with the students, parents, staff and the community of Antioch Community High School to help fulfill its mission statement."

The ACHS board has developed a mission statement and begun a school modernization program to create a "community of learners with a vision of excellence, committed to providing an educational experience that encourages all learners to develop to their fullest potential, to engage in life-long learning, and to be responsible members of society."

New bookstore owner realizes dream and joins his wife as Antioch downtown merchant

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A new general bookstore has opened in downtown Antioch.

It has 7,000 books on hand, and the owner can order a book by computer in two days from a selection of 1.5 million books.

There is free coffee and shoppers can sit in a wing-back chair and browse at Books Etc., 901 Main Street.

Dale Perryman has opened Books Etc. in the middle of downtown Antioch and he said, "I'm having a ball."

The new bookstore will carry hard cover, soft cover, and paper backs. "Generally, if I do not have it, I have access to a data base to find out where I can get it. If I can, I can get it in a couple of days," Perryman said.

The reaction, since his mid-June opening, has been "Excellent!"

"Everyone has been saying it's overdue as far as having a bookstore here," he said. If things go very well, he can always expand the store, into unused portions of the building he is now renting.

He primarily focuses on books, but he has a few related items that he carries. There are journals, bride books, small computer accessories such as screen savers and mouse pads, and some candles. Daughter Amanda, a junior at Grant Community High School, is responsible for the children's book section and the sale of a unique style candle called "Weeping Earth."

"One line I ran into is called Motherboard Enterprises," Perryman said. These are printed circuit boards from computers that are cleaned up and sold as other items. He has clipboards, clocks, key chains, bookmarks, and notebooks made of recycled computer equipment.

His service focus is on finding the book Antioch customers want. He has a basic starting inventory that he has already begun to fine-tune to Antioch tastes. As customers order books, he knows what he needs to have on hand. "It's a constant, ongoing poll; constantly," he said.

"I'm getting requests for the Oprah books," Perryman said. "She's a powerful woman. I'm going to make it a point to keep current on (her discussion group selections)." He said, "I will have all of her recommended list."

"All registered teachers will be eligible for a 10 percent professional discount," he said. He also hopes to help other major book buyers obtain what they need with his services.

Opening the store was a family

Amanda Perryman manages the children's book section at Books Etc., 901 Main Street, Antioch. Some of the books include the R. L. Stine Goosebumps series, as well as Francine Pascal's Sweet Valley University series, such as "The Trial of Jessica Wakefield." One style of candle available in the non-book area is "Weeping Earth Candle" which can create a distinctive pattern as it burns down. Perryman attends Grant Community High School.

Planners meet on proposed subdivision near Emmons

The Planning and Zoning Committee will meet tonight at 7:30, to discuss a proposed rezoning of property from agricultural or residential to E-1 planned unit development upon annexation to the village.

The initial proposal is to construct 54 single-family, detached homes on 72 acres. The proposal is known as Talon Crossing.

The development would be at the northwest corner of the intersection of Route 59 and West Beach Grove Road near Emmons School.

The Planning and Zoning

Board meets in the Village Hall at 874 Main St. Talon Crossing will be discussed at 7:45 p.m.

An anonymously circulated announcement seeks to alert Beach Grove Road area residents to the proposed hearing. The circular states that 300 feet of land is reserved for a strip shopping center and that vehicle access to Talon Crossing will be from Beach Grove Road. The circular states that this will aggravate existing traffic problems at the intersection of Route 59 and Beach Grove Road.

One quilt, 51 pies, 5K run — What a 4th!

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Sue Fielder won the Fireworks Star quilt.

Lorraine Lemke and Shirley Robinson, respectively, won the traditional and Dutch apple pie contest. There were 51 pies for the village trustees and the Mayor to sell.

Jason Gantt, 19, Grayslake, and Tricia Marks, 29, Oak Park, turned in the fastest times for the Freedom Run (3.1 miles, 5 Kilometers).

Hundreds gathered for dancing and games in Williams Park all afternoon and evening.

Thousands marched in or watched the parade.

Hundreds of thousands of points of fireworks' light exploded.

Billions of stars shone in the Antioch skies over one partial cloud cover.

It was July 4th. What a blast!

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said those who wish to volunteer to help create next year's celebration should call the Parks and Recreation Department now at 395-2160.

After all, it took 14 members to organize the above events, a group the mayor was quick to thank. "I would like to thank the members of the Fourth of July Committee and Claude LeMere, General Chairperson, for all their hard work to make the day a big success," she said.

"I would also like to thank all the sponsors and the Community Choir, Grease, and the Lakes Area Community Band for their enthusiastic participation," Shineflug said.

Members of the Independence Day Celebration committee included: Vickie Axton, Jack Miller, Jolene Wulf, Meg Ortiz, Cathy Shaughnessy, Maureen Ryan, Diana Enquist, Billie Horton, Cheryl Mateja, Laurie Stahl, Mo Fergeson, Phil Lindberg, and Tom Shaughnessy.

Lorraine Lemke's prize winning traditional apple pie started to take form at 7 a.m. "Baking is my specialty," she said. She made her pie from

'We had wonderful teamwork. That's how we survived.'

Guadalcanal survivors reunite

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

He could have been a Wadsworth kid from St. Patrick Church who died at Guadalcanal in 1942. Instead, he also got to be an Antioch husband, father, and grandfather who served in the Peace Corps when he was 69.

On Memorial days, Bill Strahan is one of the World War II veterans who can remember friends killed in war. "I lost a lot of real good friends," he said. He knows what the experience of intense aerial combat and aircraft carrier support was like and he knew what was happening to friends on the ground. In addition to fighting the Japanese, he said, "the boys in the trenches really had disease, bugs, and snakes to fight."

Strahan was one of four attack carrier Air Group 11 Navy flyers who joined a San Diego reunion, Memorial Day weekend, to remember an experience they escaped in the winter of 1942 and to measure off what they had done with lives after that.

"They're like part of your family. We had wonderful teamwork. That's how we survived," Strahan said of his reunion buddies. He also knows that "I lost a lot of real good friends."

Guadalcanal represented a reversal of fortune for the Allies in WW II. For the first time, after Guadalcanal, the military was no longer reacting to Japanese moves, but was taking the initiative. The battle represented one of the first steps in Douglas MacArthur's "island-hopping" campaign to liberate the Pacific.

In the fighting for the islands, 1,592 were killed in action, 4,183 were wounded, and thousands were disabled by disease, particularly malaria, possibly the greatest single factor reducing troop effectiveness. Twenty-four ships were lost in naval operations.

Guadalcanal demonstrated to the U.S. military that at least six air squadrons of high-altitude bombers, dive bombers, and fighters, as well as 300 Navy ships and smaller craft were needed to effectively capture Japanese island outposts.

Strahan "grew up in the Wadsworth area and after military service raised a family in the Antioch area" with wife, Grace. Married for 51 years, they have a family of five boys and three girls and nine grandchildren. Their sons are Gary, Joel, Paul, Will, and Jonathan; their daughters are Kathleen, Janet, and Priscilla.

Bill Strahan set out to San Diego over Memorial Day weekend to join a reunion of Air Group Eleven. "The Air Group was made up with a fighter squadron, two dive bomber squadrons, and a torpedo bomber squadron," reports Strahan. "Because of the shortage of carriers, Air Group Eleven was shore-based at Henderson Field, Guadalcanal, for its first combat tour of duty," Strahan reported.

The different types of planes in air groups had very specific battle responsibilities. Fighters would strafe targets head-on while dive bombers would go straight up and down and torpedo fighters would come in from the sides. "The whole attack lasted only a few minutes, but it was deadly because of the coordination," said Strahan.

Bill Strahan was part of a dive bombing squadron and when assigned to Guadalcanal flew a Douglas Dauntless Dive Bomber. Others at the reunion from the same squadron were: John Campbell, Portland, Oregon; Tony Schneider, Albuquerque, New Mexico; and Joe Eisenhuth, Pennsylvania. Schneider is their "only living squadron flight leader," according to Strahan.

Associated forces were able to control Guadalcanal by February, 1942 after some of the most fierce fighting in the Solomon Islands.

Strahan grew up a mile from the person who would become his wife in 1946. Both were living on their parents' dairy farms. The boundary line for high school districts went between their farms, so he is a graduate of Warren-Newport High School and she is a graduate of Antioch Community High School. He got a degree in agriculture from the University of Illinois and went into the Navy Air Corps. "The Navy recruiters had fighter planes doing acrobatics over the school," so he signed up. "I loved to fly."

After Guadalcanal, Strahan was assigned to the U.S.S. Hornet in Admiral Halsey's task force for his second tour of duty along with Campbell. When assigned to the Hornet, Strahan flew a Curtiss-Wright Helldiver. "They participated in numerous strikes against the Japanese air, sea, and ground forces in the Philippines, Formosa, Okinawa, Hong Kong, and French-Indochina," Strahan reported.

Grace and Bill Strahan started farming in Antioch in 1953. They also began a family. "We were close to parents; they got to see the grandchildren, and that was good. We were a close family." He was farming up to 100 acres and worked with Russ Gwaltney in real estate sales. Strahan will be 80 years old next year, but he is still involved in farming. He mostly just helps out. He helps friend J. Goetz with his 2,000 acres near Wadsworth. "He's a good fellow, a real capable nice person," Strahan said.

Ten years ago, he joined the Peace Corps, at age 69, and went to Nepal to serve as a crop extension specialist with farmers there. He was involved in working to introduce new crops to improve farming. Eventually, he would have to leave Nepal because of amebic dysentery.

Guadalcanal information is available from the Center for Military History at www.army.mil/cmhp/guadal.htm.

scratch and has no recipe to pass along. She used Golden Delicious and Granny Smith apples. "I like a mixture of apples," she said.

Cooking is a way of life for her. She recently retired from the Antioch area school systems where she has worked as a cook and cafeteria manager. Twice previously she has been a second place finisher in the apple pie contest, but not last year.

Bob Robinson is the son of the first place winner for Dutch apple pie, Shirley Robinson, and he has been eating her pies for about 37 years. He is an authority on her cooking as well as a student. "She likes all kinds of baking and cooking. She's a great cook," he said. "This was her first year entering."

"She does all different kinds of pies," he said. "She's just a great baker."

The second place finishers for the traditional and Dutch apple pie categories were, respectively, Mary Cunningham and Vicki Walker.

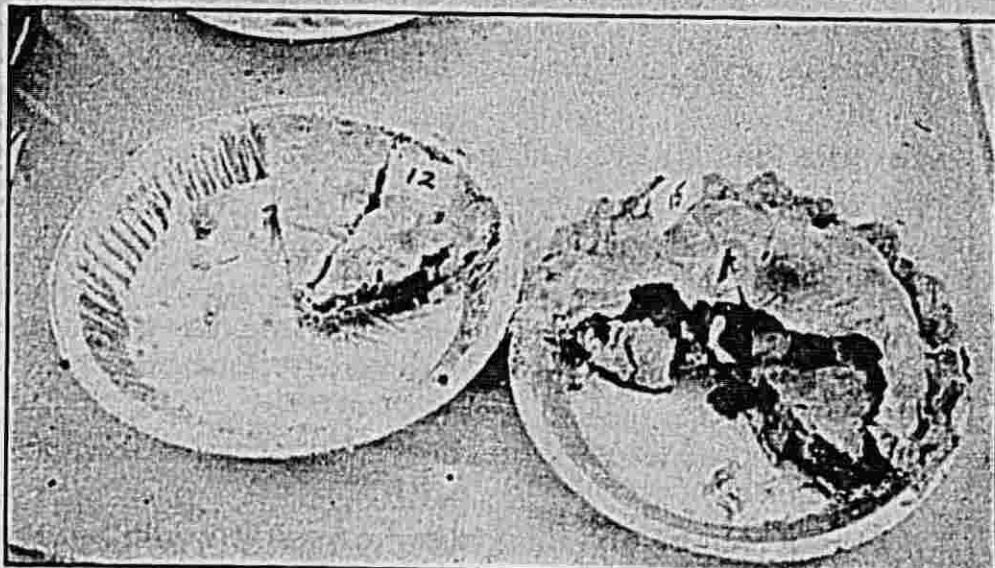

The Fireworks Star Quilt is the third to be raffled at the Antioch July 4th celebration. Wendy Maston, of Quilter's Dream, Inc. in Antioch, said they do the quilts with the historical society "to make it an old fashioned quilting bee."

"It was such a success the first year, we did it again last year and it got even more successful," Maston said. "This year it was just like everyone assumed we'd do it." So, they did. The winner, Sue Fielder of Antioch, will receive her quilt in a few weeks once the quilting and binding is complete.

BOOKS: Store is owner's dream decision. His wife already operates a store, The Tulip Patch, also in downtown Antioch.

"It's been a dream of mine, and then of mine and Judy's, basically since she took the gift shop route, of having a combination coffee shop, bookstore, gift store. Finally the opportunities came together to say 'well, let's do it.'" Since the responsibilities of owning two stores would affect everyone, they included daughter Amanda in the decision to open the store.

One key reason Antioch has a bookstore is Community Development Director Claude LeMere. "As a matter of fact, Claude LeMere is the one who brought this building to our attention because he knew Judy and I were looking for a space," said Perryman. Building owner Wally Rupert worked with them to create the store. Al Robbins at First National Bank in Antioch got him through the financing process. "They did the leg work for me," Perryman said.

"I'm offering a convenience. Now people can just come downtown and pick up a book. They don't have to drive to Gurnee Mills. It's no hassle shopping now for books," said Perryman.

Religious books are still available at Sonshine Books, Inc., 952 Main Street. Karen and Jim Matson operate that store and offer religious titles that will not be available from Perryman's store.

PLANNERS: Discuss project

The circular also states that, possibly, if sewer and water service is extended to Talon Crossing from Heron Harbor after annexation to Antioch, then it would be possible for the site to have 200 homes.

The developer could not be reached before press time.

The scheduled hearing is the first public discussion of the proposed development. The recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Board will be sent to the Village Board at some future time for acceptance or denial. State law also requires that there be a hearing before the Village Board related to annexation.

Sequoit Pride Golf Outing nears

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

"This is our major fund raiser," said Steve Schoenfelder of the Second Annual Sequoit Pride Golf Outing July 16 at the Antioch Golf Club.

It is also a three-community thank you and a kick-off for the next school year.

Registration begins at noon. Shot-gun starts begin at 1 p.m. Dinner begins at 6 p.m. The $60 registration fee includes 18 holes of golf, a cart, lunch, dinner, two drink tickets, and door prizes.

People may attend just the dinner at the golf club. "There will be a raffle after the dinner," said Schoenfelder. "We've got some nice prizes to raffle off."

Sequoit Pride is a parent support group for Antioch Community High School. Students from the villages of Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, and Antioch attend the school. Schoenfelder notes that the organization works very hard to build and assure that the three communities are brought together. "Each community is very important to this school."

The golf outing is a fund raiser, Schoenfelder said, but they also want to make this a thank you for the work and where the three communities come together to have a good time.

"The main intent is keep this thing with the three communities strong and keep it getting stronger," he said.

The fund raiser also kicks off the activities by Sequoit Pride for the next school year.

"We make our money on hole sponsorships and donations," said Tom Crichton of Sequoit Pride. The goal is to raise $10,000 with a very strong golf outing tradition. Although it may not be reached this year, the goal is to build the outing into a major fund-raising base.

For the golf outing, the fund raising comes from golfers and local sponsors. "We make our money on hole sponsors and donations," he said. Already a number of donations have been received from local businesses.

Sequoit Pride will use money from the golf outing for various extra curricular activities, computers, and school activities.

Interested participants or sponsors for tees or holes can call Steve Schoenfelder at 395-1421 extension 234 or 838-0227. Also, Tom Crichton can be called at 395-5885.

Rowe praised for helping out-of-towner

Village of Antioch Clerk Candi L. Rowe received some out of state praise for her assistance to Stephen Giusto in Hackensack, New Jersey. He was looking for a part from a manufacturer, but did not have a correct company name. Rowe helped him find the correct business, Quaker Industries, Inc., after several other places did not come through for him. Giusto wrote to Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, in part: "In management school they always teach that the company attitude starts at the top, so you and your council must be doing a good job." He told the Mayor that Rowe "could not have been more helpful."

Mary M. Aschbacher was named to the dean's list at Milwaukee's Mount Mary College for her Fall, 1996 semester academic performance. She is a freshman. Her major is occupational therapy. She is the daughter of JoAnne and Thomas Aschbacher.

Shirley Robinson, first place winner of the Dutch Apple Pie Baking Contest at the Antioch July 4th celebration, has a nephew named Robbie who was there to enjoy the Robbmoon's activities in Williams Park. He said that he prefers his grandmother's pumpkin pies and described them as "extra super-duper good."

OUR TOWN

Most of the women doing the quilt stitching on the Fireworks Star Quilt are from the Northern Lake County Quilters Guild that meets in Lindenhurst. The quilt is on display for a few days as they finish it up at Wendy Maston and Robin Kessel's Quilter's Dream at 902 Main Street. Some of the people working on the quilt at Williams Park were: Peggy Jansta, Patience Bertana, Valerie Bonhivert, Maston and Kessel. About eight or 10 other women also stopped by to help sew.

Pie Contest Update: This is a tough town. Tough pie crust does not do too well, either. Actually, it does not seem to go over at all. At 3 p.m. on July 4th when I looked, no one had bought a single slice of my pie, but there was a stack o' plates of already consumed pies sold by the Village Trustees.

Well, what should I expect? I made my last set of pies at 7 a.m., I entered four pies, and that is not my best hour for dealing with apple pie. Plus, I had been misled about the quality of my pies. Unfortunately, I had been testing them on my colleague's gourmet palates, and as I have mentioned before, this is a group of people not altogether unfamiliar with Moon Pies. Jeff Paterson, perhaps our office's foremost Moon Pie aficionado, however, states boldly that he had not eaten my apple pie. He is closely tied to the infamous microwaved Moon Pie incident, known in agency circles as the Moonhatten Project. Apparently this involved knowledge that we are not meant to possess. "Fifteen seconds on high, they said..." he said. I digress.

My wife says I should stress that she did not help me in any way with this undertaking.

Boy, you would have thought someone would have bought some slices just by accident.

But then, Lorraine Lemke's first place pie in the traditional category was virtually perfect, and who can compete against a perfect pie. Not I.

Horseman's family grateful

'I think they really saved his life'

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

The Flight For Life service touched the life of an Antioch couple June 12, 1996. Tempel Farms employee Marzena Wierszowiecki talked of the history surrounding her husband, Jacek Wierszowiecki's, trip on Flight For Life.

Jacek, a former Polish Olympic Equestrian Team member, was paralyzed when he was thrown from a horse at Evergreen Farm, located near Antioch, just over the border in Wisconsin.

Marzena was at a Flight for Life training session held at Tempel Farms June 24, and talked privately about what Flight For Life did for her husband.

"It was really great because the man from the fire department came first and he at once called the helicopter," Marzena explained. "In the mean time, if they had to transfer him from hospital to hospital, he would have been a lot worse." Jacek was flown from Evergreen Farms to Milwaukee Hospital.

Jacek said he remembers everything since he never lost consciousness. He too was very happy he wasn't first taken to a hospital for testing before being transferred to a hospital that specialized in spinal cord injuries.

"They were very professional. I remember the nurse holding my hand and talking to me," he said. Jacek said he remembers being in a lot of pain, but within about 45 minutes after the flight took off, he was in a hospital room. "They were nice, devoted, not only professionally, but on a personal level."

Tammy Chatman-Ropicky and Marzena Wierszowiecki catch up on their friendship at the annual Newport Fire Department Flight For Life training session.

The Wierszowieckis have become friends with Tammy Chatman-Ropicky, field representative for the northern Illinois program. Chatman-Ropicky and Marzena initially met prior to Jacek's accident, which happened a year ago, during the annual Flight For Life training session at Tempel Farms.

"I ended up getting involved because Mark (Kirschhoffer, Newport Fire Department Chief) called me," explained Chatman-Ropicky. He told her of a transport that had taken place at Evergreen Farms and she inquired who it was, because she knew Marzena's husband worked there.

"I went to see if there was anything we could do and tried to help out because it's a real tragic time in your life," she said of her visits to Jacek in the hospital.

Once Jacek was feeling better, Chatman-Ropicky visited him one day in his room at the hospital and took him for a visit.

"Tammy visited constantly; she was great. We even have a picture of Jacek, Tammy and the crew that took him to the hospital," Marzena explained.

The photo was taken when Chatman-Ropicky took Jacek up to the hospital's landing pad and he met the crew, including the nurse and pilot who transported him to Milwaukee. They all posed in front of the helicopter.

"I was very honored," said Jacek.

Another coincidence was the flight nurse who took care of Jacek, later was involved in a head-on collision and was transported by Flight For Life. Marzena believes Flight For Life saved her husband a great deal of suffering and saved him from further injury he could have incurred caused by multiple transports. "I think they really saved his life."

NEIGHBORS

Name: Dean Weiner

Occupation: I'm the wine salesman at Antioch Armanetti Wine and Liquors in Antioch, and I have been here a year. My previous vocation was as a chef.

I graduated from: Kendall College, Evanston, in 1988.

My family consists of: I have a mother, who means the world to me, and a brother who is turning forty in a month.

What I like best about Antioch: I like the people a great deal. They're very down home and comfortable folks.

The secret to my success is: I love what I am doing. I love putting a really good bottle of wine at an affordable price in people's hands.

If I could be anyone in history, I would be: I'd like to be Lincoln. Abraham Lincoln. I admire him greatly- anyone who brought about some good significant social change.

I relax by: I love to cook. Kind of bourgeois. I'm a real barbequer, too.

Favorite TV show is: "The Honeymooners" or "Lucy". They crack me up. And, Carson.

Favorite movie is: "Cool Hand Luke." Newman just outdid himself there.

Favorite food is: I love Chinese food.

Favorite music: Jazz. Without a doubt, I was weaned on jazz, and not just the instrumentalists but also the singers: Sarah Vaughn, Ella Fitzgerald, Carmen McRae, Billie Holiday.

My life's motto is: Give without remembering; take without forgetting. Success is never final, and failure is never fatal; it is courage that counts.

My greatest accomplishments are: Being the best son I can to my mother.

If I could change one thing about myself it would be: My sense of direction. I have a poor sense of direction.

My pet peeve is: People that will not turn on their directional signal and then you get behind them.

Most famous person I ever met was: I met Clint Eastwood once when I was working Yellowstone National Park. He was nothing like his persona. The most interesting person that I met would probably have to be Placido Domingo. I was working at a Country Club, that's close to Ravinia. After his performance he came to the club. Even if he never sung a note he would be someone who would command attention walking in a room.

My dream job would be: If money were no object, I'd probably be in charge of a train that would cater to individuals from one state to the other offering new wines and extraordinary cooking. But, the job I have here is a real terrific vehicle and I'm very glad to be here.

If you have a "Neighbor" that you would like to see profiled in this column, call Claudia Lenart or Kevin Hanrahan at 223-8161.

Children hurt in car crash

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Two Mundelein sisters are still alive after the driver of the vehicle they were in struck an oncoming van and ricocheted into another automobile.

Their mother was also injured in the multi-vehicle collision.

Guadalupe, 12, and Nancy Gonzalez, 3, Mundelein, were injured in an accident on July 4 at 11:10 a.m. at Route 83 and Maple Avenue near Diamond Lake Road. They were taken to Children's Hospital in Milwaukee by a Flight for Life helicopter.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the two children were listed in "serious condition" and "critical but stable" condition.

Nancy Gonzalez was listed in serious condition, and Guadalupe was listed as critical, but stable, four days after the accident.

Driving the 1983 Chevrolet pick-up truck involved in the accident was Emilio Hernandez, 54, also of Mundelein.

The Lake County Sheriff's office reported that he had a blood alcohol level of 0.24, now three times the limit at which recently passed Illinois state legislation presumes impairment.

According to the sheriff's department, Hernandez was driving the truck with Nancy Gonzalez in his lap. Hernandez was taken to Lake Forest Hospital by Countryside Fire Protection District.

Also injured in the accident was the mother of both children, Delfina Gonzalez. She was not wearing a seat belt. She and her children were seriously injured when hitting the windshield, police reported. She was taken to Condell Medical Center in Libertyville by Countryside Fire Protection District.

Police reports indicated, the pick up truck collided into an oncoming 1996 Ford Econoline van driven by Edward Sanders, 42, Ingleside. Sanders suffered serious injuries and was taken to Condell Medical Center by Countryside Fire Protection District. He was alone in his vehicle.

After hitting the van driven by Sanders, the Hernandez pick-up truck hit a 1989 Oldsmobile driven by Jay Cohen, 35, Chicago. He was not injured. There were two passengers in his vehicle, Terry Kinsey, 48, Chicago, and Jennifer Kinsey of Oak Park, were not injured.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Traffic Accident, DUI

Antioch police arrested Joseph F. Mollinger, 42, Antioch, on June 28 in a 1995 Geo Prizm at Route 59 and South Hillside. He had run off the road onto the east shoulder. He was charged with a traffic accident and DUI. Mollinger is to appear in Grayslake Court on July 15.

Warrant Arrest

Antioch police have made two arrests of persons wanted for outstanding warrants. Recently arrested are Patrick J. Peterson and Scott W. Tracy.

Antioch police arrested Peterson, Antioch, on June 30 at 5:04 p.m. for an outstanding warrant of the Homewood, Ill., police department on charges related to obstructing and aggravated battery.

Peterson was brought to the attention of the Antioch Police Department by Piggly-Wiggly store officials who had stopped him for shoplifting one $2.50 bottle of Boones Island Pear Wine. He was charged with retail theft.

Peterson was released on personal recognizance bond from the Antioch Police Department and released to Homewood Police officers. He has been assigned a July 23 court date at 9 a.m. in Grayslake on the Antioch charges of shoplifting.

Scott W. Tracy, 330, Antioch, was arrested by Antioch police on July 1 at 6:48 p.m. at 912 Toft Street. He was wanted for an outstanding warrant bond of $5,000 and was taken to the Antioch Police Department.

Police Recover Stolen Auto

Notice to stranded motorists: the automobiles at the gas pumps at Bernie's Quick Shop are not part of the grab-and-go culture.

Michael Coleman, 18, Waukegan, became stranded in Antioch July 6 with a friend. He camped out at the pay telephone at Bernie's Quick Shop in Antioch and waited for an automobile to arrive at the pumps with keys left in the ignition. Eventually the needed vehicle arrived and, while the owner of a 1997 Chevrolet Malibu paid for gasoline and other items, it was stolen.

Antioch Police developed local leads and worked with Park City Police Chief Michael Luff and Waukegan Chief of Police Scott Burleson. The information helped to identify persons who may have stolen the vehicle from Antioch.

Coleman was arrested, brought to Antioch, and charged with felony theft. His bond hearing in Waukegan was Wednesday morning.

Arrested for DUI

Victoria Vailentino, 48, of McHenry, on July 3, was arrested for driving under the influence, speeding and improper lane usage. She was stopped for driving 51 mph in a 35 mph zone. She had a blood alcohol level of .11.

Sheriff warns seniors beware of scams

With the advent of warm weather rapidly approaching, spring and summer scams tend to escalate particularly when people may be working outside. Following some simple suggested guidelines to alert our Lake County Senior Citizens may reduce a potential crime situation as well as provide some useful information for senior citizen scam avoidance. "Every Year," Sheriff Gary Del Re says, "our senior citizens lose thousands of dollars to traveling con artists and are cautioned to be alert and aware of the following scams."

Home diversion burglary

This scam usually occurs during the spring, summer or fall when residents are working outside. One individual will approach the victim and occupy their attention while a second subject enters the victim's home and steals cash, jewelry, and other valuable property. They may ask for a drink of water or to use the telephone to gain entrance to the victim's home. The subjects will then attempt to divert the victim's attention while an accomplice searches for valuables.

Utility employee impersonators

In this scam, the individuals attempt to gain entrance to the victim's home by posing as employees of a utility company. Once inside, the con artist informs the victim of an overcharge by the utility company and insists on providing the victim a refund asking for change for a $100 bill. When the victim makes change for the large bill, the individuals learn the location of the victim's money. While one individual diverts the attention of the victim, another steals cash or other valuables. Or, the victim may be diverted to the basement to inspect an alleged water or gas leak so that the house can be ransacked for cash and valuables.

"It is important to remember that no utility worker will become upset if you ask for proper identification or ask for a utility phone number to verify a repair. If you are approached or believe you have been victimized by a con artist, you should call the police immediately," said Sheriff Del Re.

Home repair fraud

Senior citizens are approached by individuals offering to perform various home repair jobs such as driveway repair, roof or gutter repair, chimney repair and asphalt repair. The individuals may claim to have materials left over from other jobs, offer a substantial discount, or that they were sent by a close neighbor or friend. Once the job is completed, the cost of the work is suddenly more than the first quote and payment in cash is demanded. The con artist may even offer to provide a ride to the bank so the victim can convert their check to cash.

A challenge hard to beat

During the Fourth of July festivities Antiochians participated in some annual tournaments and contests: Volleyball, Softball, Basketball, even Horseshoes.

Well, another challenge is being thrown out into the ring by the Ladies of the Antioch VFW Post 4451 Auxiliary. The ladies recently signed up their newest, yet oldest member, when Antioch's own Claire Horton joined their forces. Claire may be the most recent member but she also stakes the claim at being the oldest member of the Auxiliary.

Claire is a mere 94 years old, but her husband, who happens to be a member of the VFW also, considers her a young whipper snapper at his own age of 104. Although he has been a member of the VFW for some time now and can't boast at being the newest member, he certainly holds a title of his own worth mentioning. He is the oldest living World War I veteran to reside in Illinois. That's World War I folks, the one that started in 1914; but not too many of us can remember those days.

Recently the good folks at the VA Hospital had a huge celebration for the couple, he celebrated his 104th birthday, she celebrated her 94th birthday and together they celebrated their 74th wedding anniversary. The hospital staff turned out to honor its oldest veteran and joined the 200 guests who attended the festivities that included a cake so big the table it sat on had to be reinforced for support. When a passerby asked one of the nurses how many people were having birthdays that were being celebrated with such a big cake, she replied,

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

"just one, but we are so proud of him because he is the oldest veteran from World War I living among us."

Now the Ladies of VFW Post 4451 Auxiliary, who are so proud to have their newest member in Claire, would be tickled pink if anyone out there can top this amazing couples achievements or at least come close, please call Dorthee with your tale at 495-6934. Dorthee urges you not to put this off and wait too long.

When she called me with this little tidbit she was very insistent that I get it in print as soon as possible. She wanted to make sure Claire got to see the article, not that Claire is planning any trips in the near future, but when you are 94, you just never know when the next bus is coming to take you to that big "Bingo parlor in the sky"—if you know what I mean. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Horton, you certainly deserve the recognition and hopefully we will be here next year to help you celebrate 95, 105 and 75.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"—don't forget to call 395-6364.

For Tyson,
fight+bite=ban?
or fight+bite=$?

By now we all know about the fiasco that went down Saturday, June 28th. In the third round of the WBA Heavyweight Championship bout between challenger Mike Tyson and champion Evander Holyfield, Tyson, reportedly retaliating for intentional headbutts, bit chunks out of both of Holyfield's ears. This action caused referee Mills Lane to stop the fight and disqualify Tyson. Obviously.

By the time this newspaper hits the stands, the boxing oversight committee will have ruled on what Tyson's punishment is. People have brought their own ideas of what should happen, many coming up with a lifetime ban. My opinion, and prediction, is that Tyson will be banned from boxing in the United States for a time of less than two years. A lifetime ban would prevent a possible Holyfield-Tyson III, and that, like it or not, would generate so much interest and money that the boxing committee wouldn't dare prevent that.

This happens in other sports all the time and no one thinks twice: basketball players fighting fans, each other, kicking cameramen and headbutting referees; football players taking career-threatening cheap shots at other players; hockey players fighting at the drop of a hat with hard, wooden sticks in their hands.

No, Tyson wasn't right, and I do not have any sympathy for him, but I'd like to keep things in perspective. This was an isolated incident. I have seen every Tyson fight since 1986, with the exception of two recent pay-per-view slaughters, and Mike Tyson is not, nor has ever been, a dirty fighter. He lost it for a minute or two. He should be punished severely, but preventing the possibility of a rematch with Holyfield is not good business.

For June 28th's fight, 1.9 million people paid the $49.95 to watch the fight. Each fighter earned approximately $30 million, and everyone involved got their piece. The rematch would most likely bring in more money for everyone involved, and quite frankly, this is the only fight in the near future in which such a number of people would be interested.

With all of this behind us, I'd like to lighten the mood with the help of Round Lake resident Ruth Nathan Anderson, who faxed me an excerpt of her "Celebrity Health News," from which I will paraphrase:

After maiming Holyfield, Tyson's attorney's will have to challenge a battery of law suits from care provider experts testifying for the prosecution.

Sociologist: Holyfield felt inadequate due to his disfigurement and flawed fashion appearance. He could no longer accessorize with earrings when going out on the town with the girls.

Marriage Counselor: Holyfield and his wife require continuing counseling because when she tries to whisper sweet nothings in his ear, he pulls back, grabs his ear, jumps up and down while spinning and yelling at Mills Lane.

Thanks for the fax, Ruth.

The fifth-coolest July 4 on record was just fine for the dozens of runners gathered for the Antioch Run for Freedom 5K road race.

"It was beautiful out there," said Jason Gantt.

Gantt, the former distance ace at Grayslake High School, beat ex-teammate Dan Turner for first place. He won in 15:30. It was his third time in the race after finishing second and third.

Gantt attends Illinois State University, competing on the track and field and cross country teams.

Both the top two finishers enjoy such community runs. The race through downtown Antioch was run in 57 degree weather just before morning rains.

"You aren't running wearing a school jersey - we are all just runners," said Turner.

"It is an all for fun thing," said Gantt.

Gantt competes in the mile indoors and five-mile run outdoors at ISU for coach John Coughlin. He ran a 4:14 mile indoors last year.

Jen Osmund of Richmond was the female winner in 16:39.

Jim Centalla of Grayslake won the boys under 14 in 19:28.

Brooke Ladda of Spring Grove won the girls under 14 in 22:01.

Jeremy Arndt, like Gantt a former area running star, won the 20-29 age group with a 15:51. Trish Marks won the 20-29 female age group.

Joe Legat won the 30-39 male in 16:52 and Judy Estrada of Milwaukee won the female 40-49 in 17:02.

Former Olympian Frank Shorter, age 49, competed in 17:57, which topped his expectations.

Nature's brilliance on canvas

Artist leaves confines of city to find his heart and soul in Lake County's woods and wilderness

By KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

Lake County's open meadows, rich woodlands and sparkling lakes have lured many to make their homes here.

But those meadows, woodlands and lakes have come to mean much more for artist Tadeusz Czerkies.

For Czerkies, Lake County's natural beauty has rejuvenated his inner soul and sparked the artist in him to put Lake County's scenic charm to canvas.

"Moving to Lake County was an inspiration to renew my artistic painting," Czerkies said. "The beauty of the area, the open space, the big skies have all contributed to my creative renewal."

CITY LIMITS

An artist by nature, Czerkies, 50, had lived the better part of the last four decades in Chicago, feeling somewhat confined by Chicago's cold steel girders. Chicago may be a playhouse for aspiring architects, but for a landscape artist, the city of "Big Shoulders" could be a passionless abyss—even for an artist who graduated from Chicago's famed Art Institute of Chicago.

"In the city, the horizon is obliterated with structures and buildings," Czerkies said as he shuddered.

His return to art comes after a fruitful career in the display merchandising industry, while still living in Chicago. He continues to work in the display business, but as a private businessman through his own display firm called "Proto/MAX Inc." in Lake Villa.

Through the display business, he still applied his creative talents, but he did so for the sake of company profit and personal livelihood. His return to painting and being a landscape artist now allows him to enjoy art and nature for the sake of art.

Lake County's natural beauty rejuvenated the artistic soul of Tadeusz Czerkies, who now frequents many scenic areas of Lake County ready to paint nature's brilliance. "I had a career, raised a family, and took care of the responsibilities of being a man," said Czerkies. "Now, I can be devoted to my inner calling. I'd like to die an artist."

'CREATIVE JOURNEY'

For paternal reasons, he, along with his wife, Patricia, originally moved to Lindenhurst in 1994 with the intention to be closer to their grown daughters, Diane Link and Christine Czerkies, and grand children, Ryan and Colin O'Malley. The daughters migrated from Chicago to Lindenhurst earlier to start their lives anew as well.

Upon arrival, Czerkies was more than pleasantly surprised that Lake County offered more than a quiet suburban lifestyle. It was also rich in natural splendor, which was just the remedy for an artist yearning to find new life.

WHAT TO DO WITH THE KIDS AT DISNEY WORLD

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Disney World is the number one place to take the kids, but maybe mom and dad would like a day (or at least a couple hours) on their own. Disney's got that covered.

Kids up to the age of 12 can take part in a unique "learning while playing" developmental program at Disney's "KinderCare" while their parents do their own thing. It's open 6am-8pm daily and includes lunch and two snacks. Space is limited so call for reservations (407-827-5437) well ahead of time.

KinderCare also offers in-room baby-sitting to all Disney Resort guests. Call them at (407) 827-5444 with a 24 hr. notice.

Disney's got programs for the older kids.

The 10 to 15 year olds can take part in an unforgettable hands-on behind-the-scenes Disney experience at the "Wonders of Walt Disney World" school. The six hour classes include guide instruction and access to the Theme Parks and back-stage areas. Lunch is included. Reservations can be made by calling (407) 354-1855.

"Kidventure" offers the 8-14 year olds an introduction to ecology, plant adaptation and animal behavior at Disney's nature preserve, Discovery Island. It's offered 9am-1pm on Wednesday and Sunday during the summer and Wednesday only the rest of the year. Call (407) 824-3764 for reservations.

While the adults are off playing at night at Pleasure Island, the kids (4-12) can enjoy their own dinner show at "The Neverland Club" from 5pm to midnight. The theme is, of course, Peter Pan, and includes a buffet of kids food along with the live show.

Other night-time kids activities include the Mouseketeer Clubhouse, where, for $4.00 per hour (max 4 hours), the 4-12 year olds can play all kinds of games (video as well as the old fashion kind). It's offered at the Contemporary Resort (824-1000) and the Grand Floridian (824-2985).

Disney's Yacht and Beach Club has a similar program called the "Sandcastle Club." They can be reached at (407) 934-8000 ext. 6290.

Sure these programs sound great for kids, but Disney has not forgotten the adults.

"Disney's Learning Adventures" offers adults programs giving insight into the horticultural themes and cultures of Epcot. Call (407) 824-4321 for more information and reservations.

Employees become grumpy old softball players

As I've mentioned in the past, I work part-time for a large corporation. And large corporations usually do things in a very slow and careful manner. Still, once in a while, they like to go out on a limb and take a big risk, which explains why our department at work was scheduled for a "mandatory" softball game recently.

Now, you may not think that requiring employees to play softball is taking much of a risk, until you consider that most of our group is within a five year range of 40, either over or under, and quite a few of us mention "walking to the cafeteria to get lunch" as our best exercise of the day.

A typical day finds us plopped in an ergonomically-designed chair, clicking a mouse and staring at a computer screen, occasionally hoisting a telephone to our ear, squeezing a stapler or throwing a paper wad in the garbage can. This type of daily activity does not provide much physical preparation for sports, except maybe wheelchair basketball.

So, when I received word that we had a "mandatory" softball game, I immediately thought that something was odd—could they have skipped over our management personnel in the random drug testing? How else can you explain the wisdom of requiring a group of aging, out of shape employees to play a game, on company time and property, that could result in injuries? I couldn't help but think that either I was right about the drug testing, or my boss had never heard of the words "workmen's compensation."

LIFE'S A BEAR

As it turns out, the theory behind this "mandatory" softball game was that it would enhance our group's ability to work together. The correct corporate term for this type of activity is "teambuilding." The lesser known, slang term for this is "group torture."

At least that's what I called it at the beginning. First of all, the weather was predicted to be in the 90s on the day of our "mandatory" softball game, with a high humidity index. Personally, I enjoy publicly demonstrating my ability to sweat profusely about as much as I like getting a letter from the IRS. Not to mention that neither I nor the majority of my unused muscles have played softball in about 20 years.

I was not alone in these concerns, either. One of my co-workers had suggested that someone should bring a phone out to the ballfield or, better yet, keep a qualified paramedic standing by in case any of us old fogies had a heart attack in the event we ever reached first base. Or she feared that instead of hearing "Strike three—you're out!" it would be more like "Strike three—hey—I think she's dead!"

But things turned out quite differently, as they seem to have a way of doing. The weather was hot, but a strong breeze made it actually pleasant. Most of us found that playing softball "comes back to you", just like riding a bike. In fact, by the fourth inning or so, I practically forgot how old I really was. You should have seen me out there, running to catch a ball that sailed by over my head. In my mind, I could have been sixteen.

Not in my body, though. As I reached down to grab the ball, I felt a sharp pain down my thigh. I ended up limping off the field, trying to walk off the injury.

Fortunately, the injury was temporary, and I recovered in time to play the next inning. I could have just sat out the rest of the game, but I didn't want to let my team down.

Which I guess is why they call these things "teambuilding." The game did foster a sense of team spirit and fun. In fact I enjoyed it so much, I said to my boss, "So, boss—does this mean that we'll be playing softball every Wednesday afternoon for the rest of the summer?"

He just smiled at me and said, "So, Donna—have you ever had a random drug test?"

Donna Abear can also be heard as a guest humorist on WXLC 102.3 FM's morning show at 7:10 a.m. on alternate Mondays.

MOVIE PICK

Cage & Travolta 'Face' up to big box office success

"When you're hot, you're hot," must be the motto of John Travolta and Nicholas Cage, two long-time stars who are riding the crest of resurgent popularity. Travolta after "Pulp Fiction" and Cage after his Academy Award.

No chances were taken in "Face/Off," as the two big stars are joined by one of the top directors John Woo, who worked well with Travolta in "Broken Arrow."

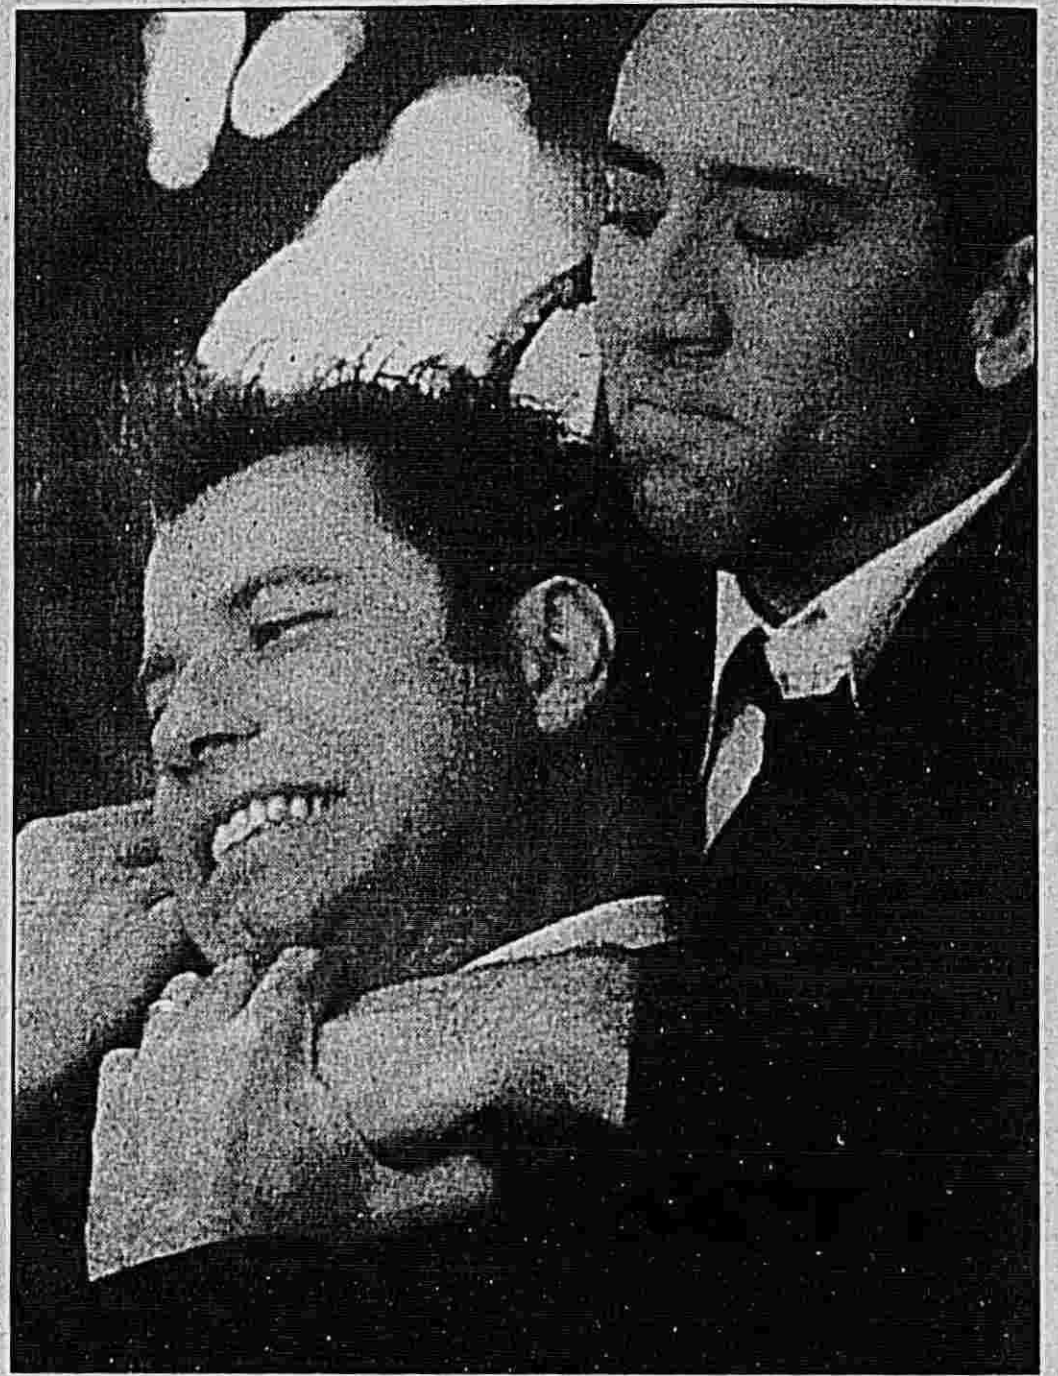

Add a clever script a couple of levels above most action flicks and you have one of this season's best blockbuster thrillers.

Sure there's plenty of fight, chase, and explosive scenes, as well as slow motion stress points or else Woo wouldn't be there. But it's the acting of Cage and Travolta that makes this movie.

FBI agent Travolta is after terrorist Cage who killed his son. When Cage is caught, the feds need someone on the inside of his terrorist group so they give Travolta Cage's face with a bit of "miraculous" plastic surgery.

Now here's where the audience must pay close attention — forget the popcorn! With Cage playing Travolta's character, pretending to be Cage, the FBI man goes into prison undercover to try to find out where the terrorists planted a nerve gas bomb.

Later Cage gets to use Travolta's face, as Travolta plays Cage entering the agent's world full force, even fooling the agent's wife played by Joan Allen while he goes after Travolta's teen daughter, played by Dominique Swain.

Maybe Travolta's Cage is just a smidgen better than Cage's Travolta.

Sure, the medical possibilities don't hold up in reality's harsh light, but going along with this different premise is fun.

The two lead actors seemingly have a good time playing each other with such adroitness that they don't just depend on mimicry as they switch personalities masterfully.

"Face/Off," like all good tragedies, has its comic side and the special effects rank among the best of them.

"Face/Off" rated "R" gets a four out of five stars rating.—By Gloria Davis

Maintaining the beauty of gardens

Backyard gardening is the most popular outdoor activity in the United States today. With July here the routine of summer gardening is well under way. Weeds need to be controlled, pests tended to, flowers and plants need to be watered, fed, pruned and staked.

I don't know about your garden, but with the warm weather, my plants have really taken off within the last week or so. Unfortunately, so have the weeds! Just this morning I was out with hoe in hand, knocking down those pesky weeds. I've noticed a fresh crop of weeds sprout after every rain or generous watering. Spacing your plants for easy hand cultivating is effective for controlling weeds when small, but cultivating doesn't do the entire job. It seems to me as soon as you've finished the laborious job, they're back with a vengeance! Hand pulling of large weeds is a must, but as the surface dries cultivating weeds (just about daily) will expose the roots to the sun, and they'll die.

Who has time to weed every day, you ask? I know I don't and besides weeding is a lot of work. In order to avoid that task, as much as possible, I mulch my garden rather heavily. Mulching controls weeds and protects the roots of plants from drying out during the summer dry spells. I have laid out old roof shingles so I do not have to bother with weeds between the rows of my vegetable garden. I used dried grass clippings and newspaper between my plants, cocoa shells work great too. Shredded bark wood chips and dry leaves make good mulches. Put on the mulch when the ground is dry, prior to mulching is a good time to cultivate in a light application of fertilizer.

GARDEN JOURNAL

I plant my flower beds very closely to keep down weeds, and it works rather well for me. I also mulch any bare spaces with bark in between the plants.

It is also important at this time of the year to keep the garden well watered. If your soil is rich in humus and compost, watering is not needed as often as in soil that is in poor condition. I prefer to lay down the hose in my flower beds rather than use an overhead sprinkler, as too much water on foliage can contribute to and spread disease (i.e. black spot on roses).

The water should be saturated to six inches deep.

Insects and plant diseases have a way of seriously damaging your garden before you know they're even there. Also, a routine program of plant protection is recommended. Diseases disfigure foliage with moldy and dusty looking growth. There are fungicides you can purchase and these can be prevented by spraying or dusting at 10 day intervals. Cover all parts of the plants, especially hard to reach areas, such as the underside of the leaves.

In your cutting garden it is wise to allow some blossoms to reach perfection in size. You can do this by snipping off the side buds leaving only the center one. You will then get a perfect flower on a long stem, good for arrangements or exhibiting at a flower show.

Faded flowers and seed pods take away strength from the plant if left on, and sometimes prevent the plant from producing more blooms. Use garden snips or sharp shears and go over your plants regularly to keep them neat. Straggling heads may be cut back to shape up plants.

Keep gardening, and until next time, peace.

The era of, 'I can't' should end as soon as possible!

You know, it's funny! With all the kids that are reportedly having trouble these days, I have yet to meet the kid who, when given the right conditions, doesn't strive to be as successful as possible. In my office each week, I see an endless parade of kids who come in with several words on their lips: "I can't...I have...(take your pick here—ADD, LD, behavior problems, etc.)."

Kids today seem to be very savvy at diagnosing themselves with all of these and more. With all the popular press about Attention Deficit Disorder and learning disabilities and all the focus on how people cannot do things because of these, many of our children have gotten the message loud and clear! So, why am I mentioning this? It's really very simple. I love watching kids be successful and know that I have seen every one of them that I work with get there (and I have seen some that you wouldn't think could). I am convinced that each and every kid can and will do well if allowed the conditions to do it. Quite bluntly, we need to educate our kids on the way to be successful instead of the reasons they are not. Kids listen very intensely. You'd be amazed at what they pick up that is said about them and then act that very thing out. Please don't get me wrong. I don't believe that we should ignore the problems our kids are having. Quite the opposite. We should figure out what the problem is, quickly attend to it and make sure the child looks at it as something to strive for success in spite of, instead of a ready made excuse. There is no feeling in the world like showing a child who is convinced that he or she cannot do something due to a problem like ADD or LD, that really, he or she can do anything at all with the right conditions. We should all strive for the era of, "I can't" to end as soon as possible.

Sherri Singer,

Dear Dr. Singer,
My 8 year old child had a very hard time in school this last year. What's interesting about this is that there is no bad behavior at home. Do you have any hints as to how we can prevent this behavior for next school year? M.N.

Dear M.N.,

In most cases I have seen, when kids act out in one place and not another, it usually means that there is more structure in one place than another. The best way to handle this is to make sure that not only the structure is similar in both places, but also the rules and specifics. Kids find it the easiest to behave when things are consistent from place to place. This includes situations like divorce. If things are handled the same way at mom's house and dad's house, behavior tends to be much better and transitions much smoother. Getting structure to be the best it can be both at home and school is the exact material I handle in my Behavior Program. If you're interested in learning more about this program, call me.

The other thing that can be occurring would be a peer problem. Maybe your child is not getting along with the other kids. Maybe something about school is bothering the child. Your child would need to be interviewed thoroughly prior to you making any determinations about what is actually occurring to cause the behavior. I would recommend this be with a professional so all the right answers are gotten quickly.

The best place to begin determining what is going on with your child is a thorough evaluation. Once you have ruled out things like we mentioned above, you can go forward with a behavior plan without guilt. The idea here in evaluating, is not to provide an excuse for behavior, but rather to get these things identified as quickly as possible to treat them and then be able to hold the child responsible for behavior and ultimately see improvement. I would suggest doing this evaluation privately so that testing is thorough and it happens very quickly since you want this problem attended to as soon as possible so your child can have as much of the school year as possible to do well.

If disorders like those mentioned above are found, treat them quickly and get on to the behavioral corrections. If all is ruled out by testing, and behavior continues, at that point it is most likely because your child feels he can get away with this behavior, or is getting some sort of attention from it. If it's purely behavioral, the Behavior Program would be useful for you.

The key is in making sure that the child's behavior is identified clearly and hooked to appropriate privileges and consequences. It may sound tough to some, but the reality is, we all have to follow rules to get our privileges too. If we drive too fast, we may lose our driving privilege. If we don't show up to work, we may lose our working privilege, and thus all of our other privileges.

We are raising our kids to live in the same world of expectations we do. To me, it makes more sense to be tough when they are young and have them learn it in the safety of your home rather than the world. Be sure if you are going to attend to this behavior that you are consistent. Also, if it feels out of control to you or you feel that you are not getting where you'd like to, I'd highly recommend that you seek out some professional help with this so that it gets under control quickly. The faster these situations get under control, the better it is for the child. Less time lost!

Incidentally, I can also talk with you about evaluations or testing if you have any questions about how to get that done or what the child would need.

Lake County continues to be choice of new home buyers

Lake County continues to be a leading destination for new home buyers and new home builders. Offering residents a unique mix of agriculture, recreation and job opportunities with major corporations, Lake County has been the leading suburban county in new home building permits for the last couple of years.

Homes range from starter homes to move-ups to executive mansions. An example of the many popular developments currently on the market in Lake County follow.

Cambridge-at-Midlane Court — Wadsworth

Half of the 166 Court Homes planned for Cambridge-at-Midlane in Wadsworth have been sold.

Six Court Home designs are available including split-level and two-story plans that range from just under 1,000 square feet to 1,700 square feet of living space. The Court Homes feature two bedrooms with lofts included in two of the plans; one to 2 1/2 baths; 1 1/2 story entry foyers; sunny kitchens; spacious master bedrooms with adjoining baths; living rooms and dining rooms; and two-car garages. Each Court home is available with volume ceilings, and most of the plans include bonus areas that can be finished to include additional living space. Prices range currently from $99,990 to $142,490.

"The Court Homes are attainable in price, which has attracted a number of first-time purchasers. People have also been drawn by the number of natural amenities and recreational opportunities that are featured in and around the community," said Richard J. Brown, chairman and chief executive officer of Cambridge Homes.

A number of the Court Home sites are located along six fairways of the new Lohmann-designed addition to the Midlane golf course, and others are situated near wooded nature areas and ponds.

Cambridge-at-Midlane is part of the Links of Midlane, a master planned community that includes three other neighborhoods being developed with more than 200 customer single-family homes. The Links of Midlane also features the 27-hole Midlane golf course, and 100 acres of nature preserves.

Cambridge-at-Midlane is located off Yorkhouse Road, 1/2 mile west of Delaney Road in Wadsworth. Call, 662-6565 for more information.

Girmscheid Builders — Vernon Hills

Girmscheid Builders, Inc. has purchased 24 custom homesites at Gregg's Landing in Vernon Hills.

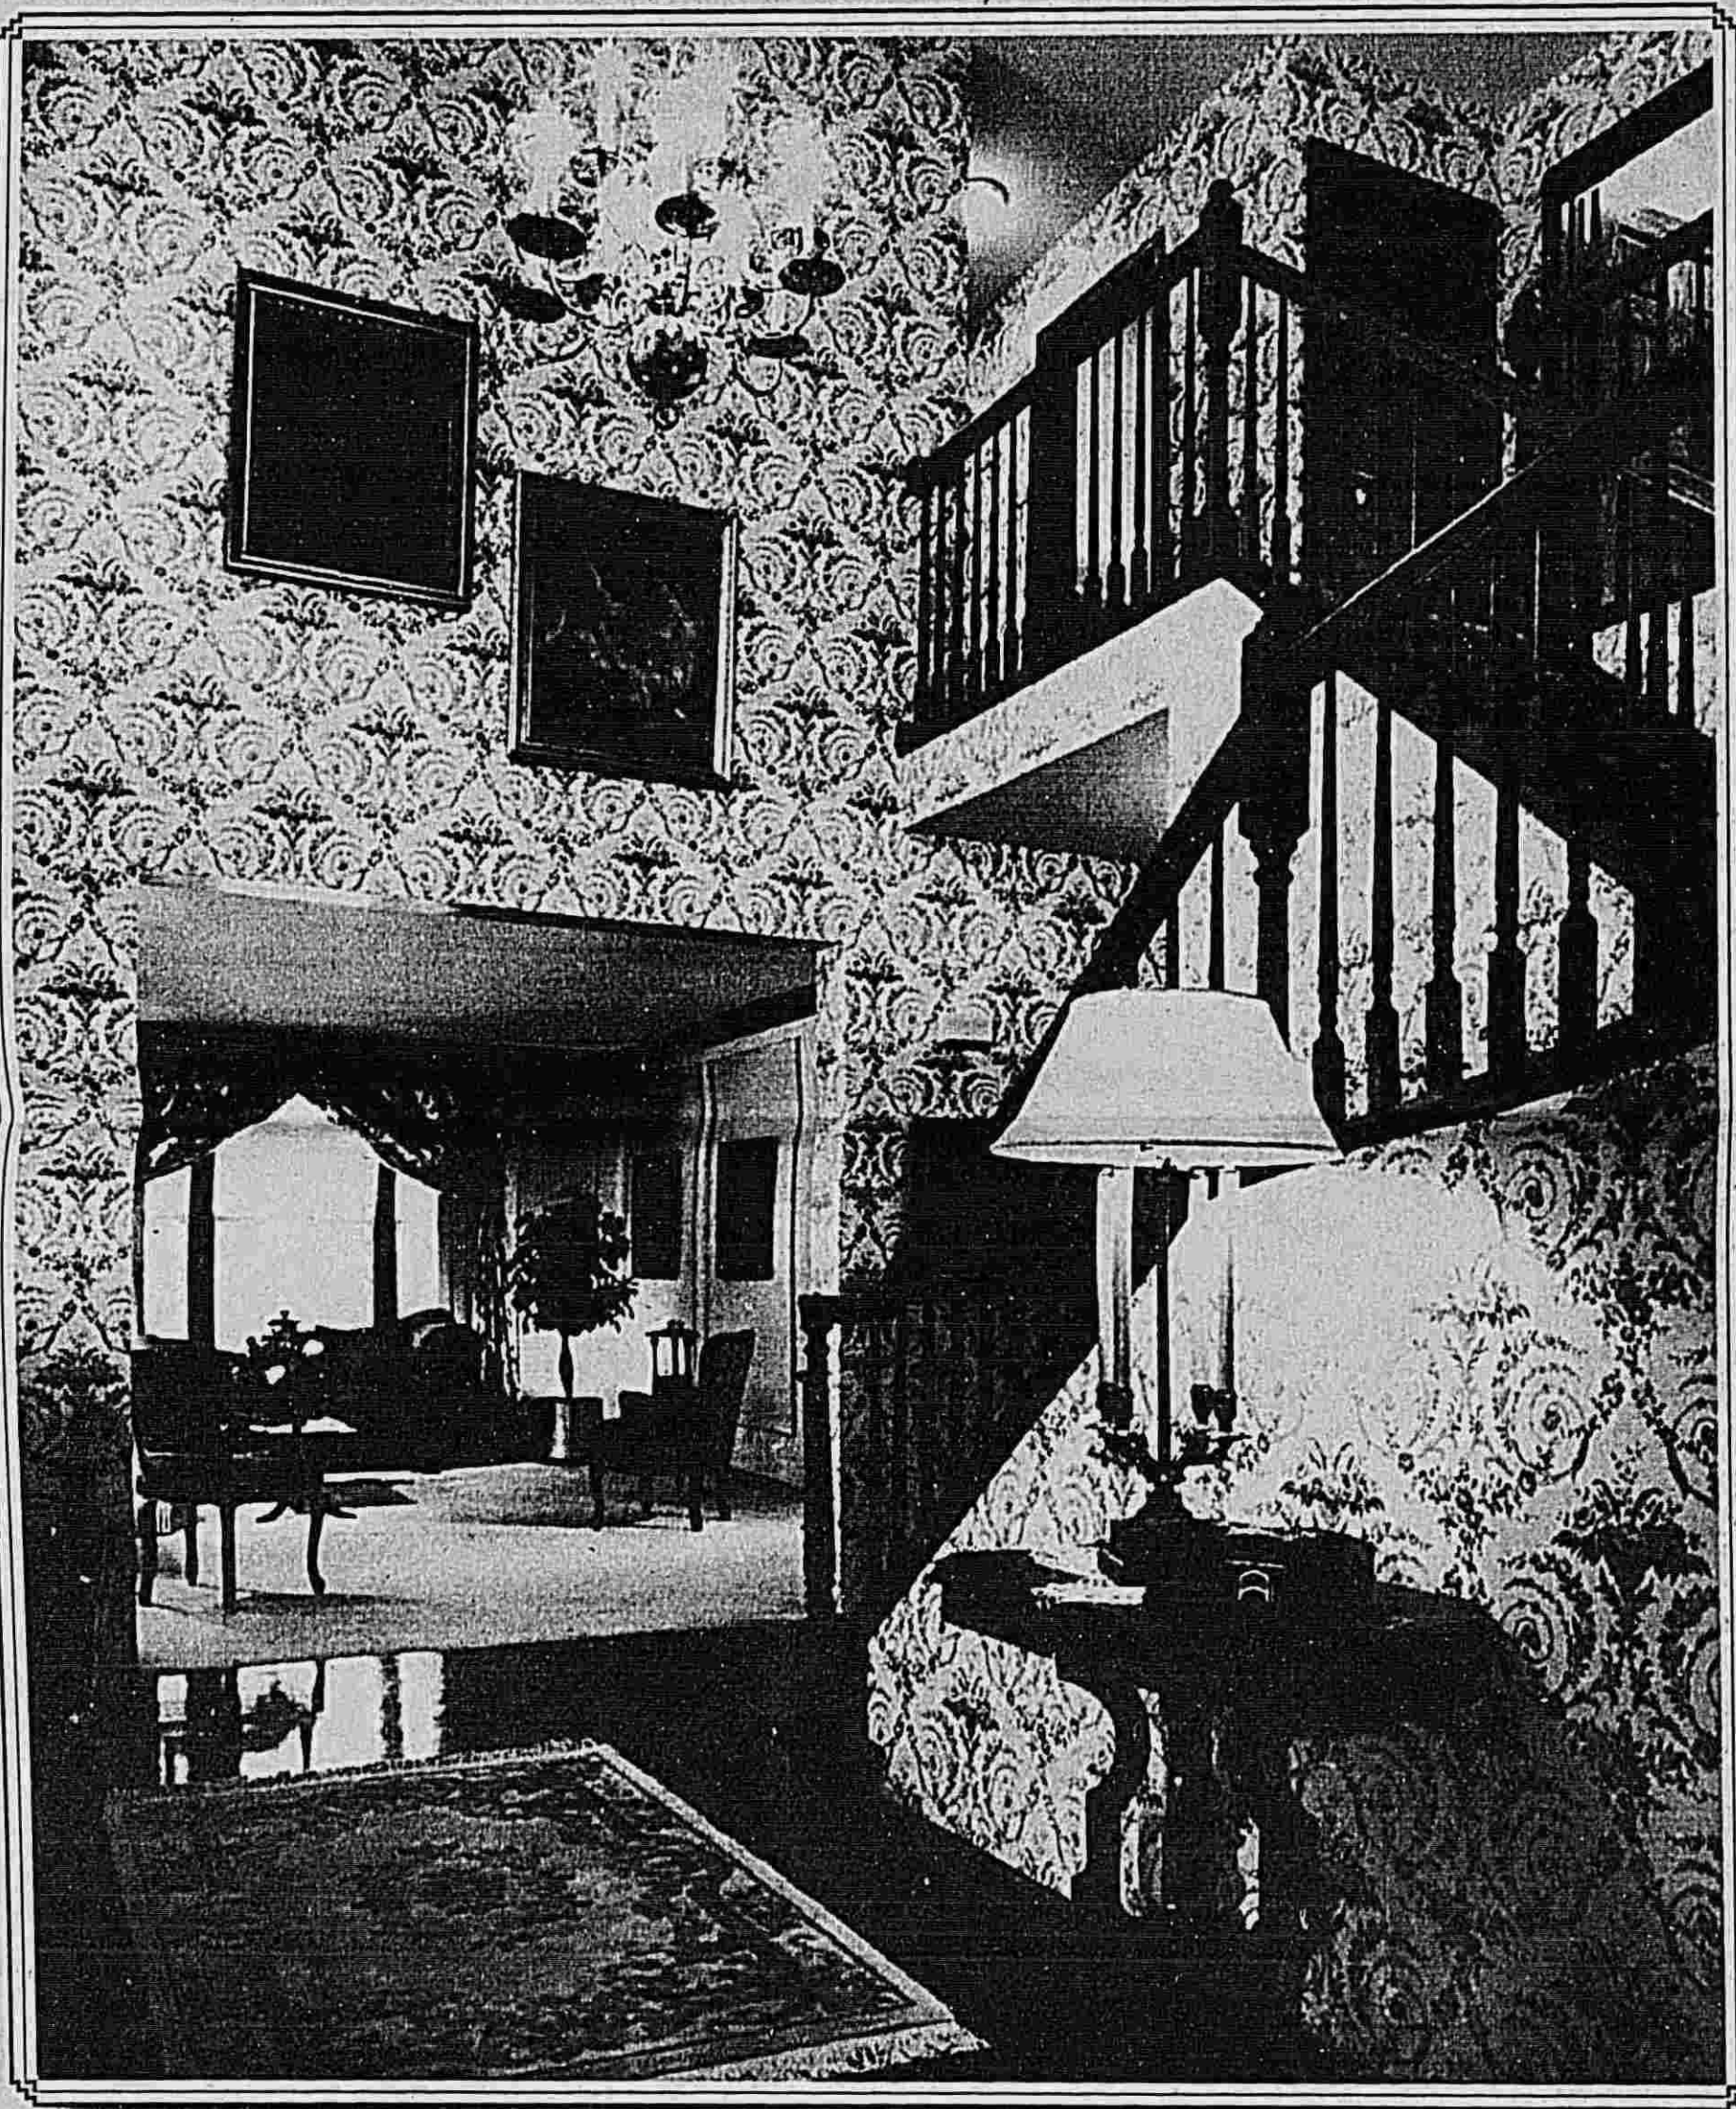

"We're delighted to have a builder with Girmscheid's impressive credentials take a leadership role in the development of our three custom neighborhoods," said Leon Joffe, vice president of Buffalo Grove-based Zale Development, master developers of the 1,100-acre golf course community.

For their part, co-owners Tom and Terry Girmscheid are equally pleased with the new association.

"As the last custom site of this quality in Lake County, we feel Gregg's Landing presents an incredible opportunity and plan to make it Girmscheid Builders' new home," said Tom Girmscheid, firm founder.

Tom and Terry Girmscheid have made their mark throughout Lake County by providing custom residences of distinction in Libertyville, Long Grove, Green Oaks, Lake Forest and Lake Bluff for the past 10 years.

The individual Girmscheid homesites are priced from $129,000 to $350,000 and feature

The two-story foyer in the Whitechapel plan at Country Lane at Wadsworth Lake lends its volume to the rest of the home, and displays many of the other first-floor rooms to a wide variety of golf course, lakeside and cul-de-sac locations. Many are amenable to walk-out and lookout basements.

Noting that his firm is strictly a custom design/build enterprise, Girmscheid said all the new homesites will be sold as part of lot-plus-home packages only.

"We will not be selling homesites alone. Rather, our award-winning design team will work with individual parties to design truly custom homes and then build to suit based on the buyers' desire and budgets," Girmscheid said.

Though budgets will no doubt vary based on community selected, Girmscheid said complete home-plus-lot packages will be available from $450,000 and up.

For more information about the new Girmscheid homesites, call 367-5258 or visit the firm's office/model at 1511 Sunnyview Dr. in Libertyville.

Baxter Homes — Wadsworth

Regardless of the type, size or style of home they are seeking, most home buyers are looking for good old-fashioned class, as well as classic old fashions, in the foyer, where first impressions are formed.

"Just as the exterior provides a first impression of the home as a whole—its so-called 'curb appeal'—the foyer sets the tone for what the interior will be like," said Gary M. Baxter, president of Baxter Homes Corp. "It may be a small fraction of the space, but it's an important one."

For dramatic impact, Baxter Homes features comparatively spacious two-story foyers in all of the floor plans offered at Country Lane at Wadsworth Lake, a 47-acre community of Victorian-style single-family homes in Waukegan, near the Wadsworth border.

Please see HOME BUYERS / B15

Foyers are as simple a design statement as they come, and they have remained virtually unchanged in fashion status since before the 1920s. The term "foyer" is derived from the Latin word "focarius," or "of the hearth." It comes from the same linguistic base as the words "focus," and for good reason; the foyer is the focal point of the home, "and the spot where a guest's first impression will be made," said Baxter.

The community of 126 homes features nine floor plans, divided into three series of homes, grouped by size and price: Main Street, with two- to four-bedroom homes from 1,442 to 1,985 square feet, priced from $144,900 to $179,000; the Signature series, with three- and four-bedroom homes from 1,666 to 3,058 square feet, priced from $144,900 to $219,000, and Country Estates, with three- and four-bedroom homes from 2,055 to 2,410 square feet, priced from $224,900 to $239,900.

"The floor plans reveal a varied cross-section of what a foyer can be," said Baxter.

"For example, the 1,985-square-foot Primrose's foyer opens up to a U-shaped staircase and offers lines of sight into the den, living room, kitchen and the optional family room, as well as the common hallway upstairs. It has plenty of wall space and natural light to create an open feeling that continues throughout the home."

The front door of the 2,410-square foot Whitechapel is tucked into the corner of the L-shaped home, turning the foyer to the side. "The lines of sight, as a result, show off the living room, dining and family room, all at a glance," said Baxter, "with the stairway to the upper level directly opposite and as much wall space as an art gallery, it seems."

Regardless of their shapes and sizes, two-story foyers are just one example of the interior architectural features found in County Lane homes; others include clerestory windows (per plan) and cathedral or coffered ceilings in master bedrooms, living rooms or family rooms.

The community is one mile west of Delany Road on Yorkhouse Road, 2 1/2 miles north of the intersection of Delany Road and Skokie Highway (Rte. 41).

For information, call 360-1919.

The 4,300 square foot "Lady of the Mist" is one of the two Girmscheid models under construction in the Pebble Beach community at Gregg's Landing. This home will be featured in the 15th Annual Parade of Homes in October.—Submitted photo.

Townhomes of Rainier Woods — Grayslake

Home buyers who would like to combine carefree townhome living with a beautiful natural setting have a last chance to purchase one of the four remaining townhomes at Rainier Woods in Grayslake.

Rainier Woods is a scenic hillside neighborhood of 39 townhomes featuring award-winning designs by Four Oaks Development Corp. The remaining homes, available in three different floor plans, are priced from $141,800 to $159,800 including walk-out basements.

"Those who visit Rainier Woods now can readily appreciate how attractive the finished community will be, and they can also get a sense of the friendly neighborhood spirit that has developed among the residents," said

Marcia Redlinger, sales and marketing manager for Four Oaks Development Corp.

The remaining home designs range from 2,159 to 2,323 square feet, including walk-out basements. All have two-car attached garages and patios to enjoy the resort like views.

In addition to outstanding home values, Rainier Woods offers a quiet country setting close to transportation and other conveniences. Situated in the Chain O'Lakes resort we don't think there is much risk in putting up one of our most successful plans at an excellent location that will enable us to provide prompt delivery of a new Saddlewood home," explained John Smolenski, sales manager at Saddlewood in Wauconda.

Only 18 homesites, many with views overlooking perpetual nature preserves, are left in the 52-acre wooded community of 81 semi-custom homes.

One of those has been allocated for spec construction of a 2,548-square-foot Nottingham, a two-story design with three bedrooms, a loft and 2 1/2 baths.

Standard features of the Nottingham include a two-story foyer and living room with a vaulted ceiling, separate den and breakfast

Creative recycling in the kitchen

Garbage is garbage. Or so you've always thought. The greening of America, however, is forcing many people to think twice before they throw something away. Creative thinking can transform nearly any "trash" item into a festive gift.

Try looking at boxes, bottles and lidded cans (such as coffee cans) with a new eye. For example, tall, slim glass bottles (such as wine or vinegar bottles) can show off homemade flavored vinegars to their best advantage. To make your own, pour a good quality white or wine vinegar over your favorite fresh herbs, such as springs of rosemary and thyme or cloves of peeled garlic or shallots. Seal with corks purchased at a gourmet shop and tie with pretty ribbon. These vinegars will surely please your favorite cook or salad lover.

Another much-appreciated gift made from kitchen recyclable is a specially decorated box or can filled with sweet treats. Using glue, cover a lidded box or can with wrapping paper or wallpaper. Once the can or box is covered, personalize with trims, buttons, beads and so on. Fill with cookies or candies and you have a tasty, inexpensive gift.

Breathe new life into pickle or jelly jars by gluing trims to their lids and filling with a favorite indulgence. Bath beads, spices, fancy pastas and preserves are just a few of the many items made more appealing by being presented in clear glass with a "designer" top.

Let a professional create the ambiance of relaxed luxury

Decorating Den answers formal and casual decorating questions.

Q. What style of decorating is becoming more popular?

A. The prevailing style in home furnishings is a relaxed interpretation of luxury. There has been a marriage between the formality of the living room and the casualness of the family room, producing a combination of the best traits of each room.

Q. Why has this become such an important style direction?

A. It suits the way people want to live—being comfortable and at ease with their surroundings without sacrificing elegance and beauty.

Q. What are the elements of creating relaxed luxury?

A. Many components go into making this style successful. To begin with, the decorating needs to be carefully planned without coming off looking contrived. Things should go together, but not be relentlessly matched. Using color and/or theme is the most effective way of mixing all of the various elements into one pleasing whole.

Q. Does this mean I have to start from scratch?

A. Actually, this style lends itself best to a blending of old and new. Sometimes the simple brush of a fresh color to your favorite furnishings will make the difference. Other times a too casual room can be enhanced with some finishing touches such as new slipcovers, the addition of details like bullion fringe, or a new area rug.

Q. How have window treatments been affected by this trend?

A. The look of yesterday's rigid, pleated drapery has been replaced with a more relaxed yet luxurious style. This is evidenced with soft, flowing panels and the use of bold, dramatic rods and finials.

Q. What advice would you give for achieving this look at home?

A. Like one of those deceptively easy recipes offered in fashionable food magazines, creating the ambiance of relaxed luxury is best left to the professional. For the easiest, most convenient, affordable and comfortable way to have your rooms beautifully and comfortably decorated call Decorating Den.

Welcoming houseguests

Whether you are a city apartment dweller, live in a townhome, or own a house in the suburbs, the time will come when you will be called upon to provide overnight accommodations for family and friends. Each situation bears its unique challenges, but planning ahead will make decorating a special place for your visitors a pleasurable project.

Apartment

When you are faced with limited space and privacy is a concern, one attractive solution is using a folding screen to act as a divider wall. Determine if the screen is to remain open or if it needs to be moved out of the way after your company leaves. In the latter case, construct with lightweight materials and adjust the dimensions of each panel; for easy manageability. Two options would be to hinge a row of narrow louvered shutters or fabric stretched on a series of decorative wooden frames. If the screen is meant to be a decorative object, a dramatic choice would be to mirror the side facing the living area, and cover the bed side with wallpaper, attach some hooks, add pretty hangers and you will provide your guest with an instant closet.

Townhome

In most townhouses rooms are at a premium, but with a little advance preparation you can easily adapt your home office or sewing room to an inviting guest area. The most important thing to the weary traveler is a comfortable place to rest. Whether sleepsofa, daybed or futon, it must be covered with the most luxurious sheets, blankets and pillows. Store these items in an armoire that doubles as a closet, or a place in a trunk that can also serve as a cocktail or end table. Add to those amenities, a basket of current magazines, a few bestsellers, a variety of CDs, a vase full of fresh flowers and some tasty treats to eat and drink. With all five senses nourished your visitors will feel very well-cared for.

Home

Perhaps you are fortunate enough to live in a home with a spare bedroom that can be devoted solely to houseguests, giving you the perfect excuse to decorate around a particular style or theme. Look to wallcovering and borders for inspiration and color direction. Follow through with coordinating fabrics for the bed and windows. Guests visiting the Eastern Shore of Maryland might find themselves sleeping in a traditionally decorated room with a waterfowl motif, while company enjoying a more informal contemporary ambiance at a home in Southern California could find themselves waking up to ceiling bordered in seashells. In either location, the addition of a chair and ottoman or chaise lounge would be greatly appreciated by your company.

A last thought on decorating for guests—provide the things that would make you feel at ease if you were staying at someone else's home. One true test is to spend the night in the area or room that you are planning to use to house your guests.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20
You take on the role of crusader this week, Aries, and fight to help a co-worker who is having trouble with a superior. You help a person in need without jeopardizing your standing in the company. Your love life flourishes as someone you've been dating reveals his or her true feelings for you. Gemini plays a role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21
Your will is tested early in the week when you meet a new co-worker who is just as stubborn as you. Instead of working against him or her, combine your efforts. The two of you can make a lot of headway together. A close friend needs your support during the weekend. Be there for him or her.

Gemini - May 22/June 21
While it may be difficult, try not to be impatient this week. Remain calm at work, even though it seems as if everyone is working against you. Stand your ground — calmly — and all will be well soon. Things are easier on the home front. Loved ones are supportive of all you do. Cancer plays an important role early in the week.

Cancer - June 22/July 22
This week, you feel bright and cheerful as everything seems to be going right. The down-in-the-dumps feeling you've had for the past few days passes, and you feel like a new person. Work goes well, and your personal life thrives. Friends you haven't heard from in a while contact you, and someone special makes a move. Say yes.

Leo - July 23/August 23
It's a good thing that you're a loyal friend, because a loved one needs your support this week. Your advice and caring is appreciated, and you gain a sense of fulfillment by helping him or her. Your love life is in full swing later in the week. Someone intriguing introduces himself or herself to you and seeks your attention. Aries plays a role.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22
There's no need for you to worry about anything this week. Things go well at work and at home. Your efforts are appreciated by your superiors from 9 to 5, and your loved ones are impressed by your efforts to maintain family harmony. A person you've been seeing wants to step up the relationship.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23
You meet a lot of interesting people at work this week, Libra. You make some new friends and a lot of connections. Even though you don't need them now, they will be beneficial in the future. Sagittarius plays an important role.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22
The truth will set you free early in the week — even though you think it will get you in trouble. Don't lie when it comes to a problem at work, because it only will make you lose face with superiors. A family member needs your help with a child. Your input can help with a difficult situation.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Control your temper late in the week. A co-worker irks you with his or her attempts to steal the glory when a long-term project finally is completed. However, you will look like the bad guy if you retaliate. Talk to your superior in private to rectify the situation. That special someone asks you out for a drink. Saying yes could lead to an interesting relationship.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20
If you overcome your shyness this week, Capricorn, you will meet a wonderful person who can help you personally and professionally. He or she not only can advance your career, but also will introduce you to someone who just may be "the one for you." Gemini plays an important role.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18
Your practical nature wins out at work on Monday. While co-workers try to get you to take the easy way out when it comes to a problem, your diligent efforts, though time-consuming, get you noticed by the higher-ups. You'll be remembered when promotions come around.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20
Your compassionate nature serves you well this week as a loved one goes through a trying time. Be optimistic to keep his or her spirits up. While this will take a lot of energy on your part, it is needed — and you will be appreciated.

NATURE: Landscape artist finds 'creative renewal' in Lake County's natural beauty spaces was a burst of creative energy," Czerkies said. More and more, he finds himself yielding to Mother Nature as she lives here in Lake County.

"I feel connected to nature when I'm outdoors. I see all its images. It all moves me—the scenes, the colors," Czerkies said.

Quickly, Czerkies took to Lake County's Forest Preserves and other open areas for the subjects of his paintings. Some of his most colorful and dynamic works were taken from Crooked Lake in Lindenhurst, Volo Bog in Volo, Grant Woods in Lake Villa, McDonald Woods in Lindenhurst, and Illinois State Beach Park in Zion.

"They're beautiful places to go for a walk and fascinating to paint," Czerkies said. "The colors are more vibrant in nature than being surrounded by brick and steel like in the city. There's passion in color."

Another aspect of Lake County's landscape scene that Czerkies finds appealing and uplifting is the seasons and their effect on nature, color and setting.

"You see weather develop, and the seasonal colors are so magnificent here," Czerkies said. "The beauty of the seasons is very dramatic here."

Czerkies, a self-described impressionist, uses broad strokes when creating his nature scenes on canvas. His medium is water-based acrylic, which, he said, helps him to accentuate nature's colors more brilliantly.

From walking through the forest preserves, finding a scene, photographing the scene, planning out the subject matter and finally giving new life and color to the scene, Czerkies finds true joy throughout the whole "creative journey," as he calls it.

"A painting to me is like an end of a creative journey, and I can't wait to finish one in order to start another," Czerkies said.

ART FAIR CIRCUIT

Now that he has found his subject and has compiled quite an impressive portfolio of Lake County landscape scenes in less than three years, Czerkies wants to share them with prospective art lovers.

Lake County's many different art fairs in downtown plazas or parks was another pleasant surprise for Czerkies since moving here. He exhibited many of his pieces at the Grayslake Art Fair, June 22. It was his first art fair since 1968.

"Getting back to art fairs is exciting," said Czerkies, who was eager just to talk art with people during the Grayslake fair. "You get to share your experience with people."

He believes many of Lake County's towns are ideal for open-air art fairs, so people can come, discover and appreciate various styles of art at their own pace.

"It's nice to see people stop and take a look at your paintings. You find people who appreciate your work. It's very rewarding," said a humble Czerkies.

The Grayslake fair has encouraged him to display his work at more art fairs in the area before summer's end including one in Kenosha on July 20, one in Winthrop Harbor on Aug. 2-3, and one in Antioch, Sept. 6-7.

Furthermore, Czerkies has become attracted to the small downtown art studios dotted throughout Lake County.

Some of his work is currently on display at Millennium Studio in Libertyville.

In addition to the art fairs and downtown studios, Czerkies believes there is an overall appreciation for the arts throughout Lake County. He cited the efforts to teach the arts at the David Adler Cultural Center in Libertyville and various classes sponsored through the College of Lake County as examples to keep the advancement of the arts thriving in Lake County.

"Lake County has many groups and outlets to expose people to the arts," Czerkies said. "It's an area where fine arts is appreciated."

Through his brilliant landscape scenes of Lake County, Czerkies, in many ways, sees himself giving back to the source that sparked his creative renewal and sharing a piece of Lake County's beauty with the rest of the world.

Many have also come to appreciate his work as they have purchased many of his pieces, giving them a chance to showcase Lake County's beauty as interpreted by Czerkies in their homes.

The main building set on Presbyterian Homes' 49-acre Lake Forest Place continuing care retirement campus will house independent living apartments, an assisted living wing, and a nursing care facility. It will also contain 50,000 square feet of common areas, including restaurants, gift and convenience stores, a library, a fitness center, and many other amenities.

One step closer to retirement

Seniors in the northern suburbs are one step closer to the latest in retirement housing as Presbyterian Homes dedicated the cornerstone of its Lake Forest Place retirement campus.

The retirement housing is being built on 49 acres in Lake Forest at the intersection of Westmoreland and Waukegan Roads.

More than 400 guests gathered under a marquee at the Lake Forest Health and Fitness Institute for the outdoor dedication, which included bus tours of the campus under construction and a half-hour ceremony. Among the presenters were State Rep. Corinne Wood, (R-Lake Forest) past Lake Forest Mayor Rhett Butler, and Ashley Maentz, chairman of the Lake Forest Hospital Board.

Peter Mulvey, Presbyterian Homes president and CEO, thanked the future residents of Lake Forest Place for their faith in Presbyterian Homes and read a proclamation by Governor Edgar.

Presbyterian Homes Chairman of the Board Doug Petrie said, "When completed we believe Lake Forest Place will represent a new standard in retirement centers in the United States."

The $130 million continuing care retirement community, planned to eventually serve 400 residents who are 62 or older, will provide a full spectrum of housing choices that reflects the newest ideas for accommodating the needs of people as they age and require more support.

Construction began last September and the project is currently scheduled for completion by mid-1998.

The community will contain 82 independent living cottages featuring cathedral ceilings, partial basements, and fireplaces, 168 one- and two-bedroom apartments, 30 assisted living apartments, and 56 private nursing rooms. Nine acres of the property will feature walking paths, a pond, and a chipping green.

A community center in the main building, with 50,000 square feet of common space, will be the heart of the campus. It will offer such amenities as a restaurant-style dining room, fitness center with indoor swimming pool, library, gift shop, craft/hobby shop, and underground parking. Innovative plans also call for a sensory garden attached to the health care wing.

A complete range of services and health care will be available, including prepared meals, housekeeping, transportation, and activities program, an outpatient clinic, and 24-hour nursing care.

Architects for the project are O'Donnell, Wicklund, Pigozzi, and Peterson Architects, Inc., Deerfield, which is designing the main building that houses the community center, apartments, and health care wing, and Otis Associates, Inc., Schaumburg, which is responsible for the design of the 82 cottages. Turner Construction Company, Chicago, is the general contractor for the project.

Remembering to stay healthy

By ALLAN M. KORN, MD

Sometimes, it's hard for us to do all of the things that we should do to stay well. We're busy or tired, or occasionally we procrastinate. Most of us could use some help to make sure that we do everything we can to avoid getting sick.

We all know we should get immunizations for ourselves and our children. We know we should have regular check-ups. We know we should make appointments for tests that can give us an advanced warning of certain diseases. We know we should take preventive action when something is "going around." We know we should eat the right things, get enough sleep and exercise. We know we shouldn't smoke or overuse alcohol. But knowing the right things to do doesn't mean that we'll actually do them.

While it's much more logical to take actions and form habits that keep us healthy, so that we don't have to see the doctor as often and so that we can stay out of the hospital, we often need some gentle prodding to keep us on track. Frequently, however, we are inclined to use medical services only in reaction to problems. When we get sick, we go to see a doctor. Doctors and hospitals treat us and get paid. If we don't get sick, we don't visit a doctor or hospital. Not surprisingly, doctors and hospitals don't get paid.

Why isn't there some way to build a system to help remind us to do the right things for our health? To get good preventive care? To make the right choices about tobacco, alcohol or diet? Why isn't there some way for doctors to be part of this—to help us stay healthy and get paid for doing it? In fact, why isn't there some way for doctors to benefit more when their patients remain healthy than when they get sick?

Well, there is a way to do that. It's called "Managed Care."

HMOs and some PPOs excel at helping their members stay healthy. They send postcards or letters to members reminding them of the need for pap smears, immunizations and other necessary tests. With special computer systems, managed care doctors are alerted when patients have not seen a physician for a year or longer. Protocols are often developed to help doctors manage difficult problems such as smoking cessation, asthma or diabetes. These special programs often include educational materials and written or telephone reminders.

Managed care plans focus on a team approach, getting members to take an active role in their own health care and rewarding doctors who work hard to keep their patients healthy. The health care providers in managed care plans are very good at helping you get well when you're sick or injured, but it's important to remember that they also help you to stay healthy.

Life after cancer presentation at Gurnee Mills

Living life after cancer is a challenging and fulfilling experience which requires a special attitude, the right frame of mind, common sense, and a good sense of humor.

Cancer survivor and entrepreneur Barbara Goldberg, creator and owner of Hair Response, Inc., will share her prescription for a successful life after cancer during a free public presentation Wednesday, July 16 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Cancer Resource Center in Gurnee Mills.

"People who have experienced cancer deal with a lot of 'what ifs,'" Goldberg says. "What if I get so sick that I can't work? What if I can't care for my family? What if my insurance drops me? This kind of thinking keeps you from moving forward in a positive direction. It's very important to keep moving forward and to put out positive thoughts rather than negative ones."

To register for the program, call 1(800)940-2822.

Gurnee resident Ron Flaiani was honored by the American Heart Assn. of Metropolitan Chicago with its national Time, Feeling and Focus Award at its 75th annual meeting. The award is given to a volunteer who exemplifies a spirit of high standards and commitment to the American Heart Assn.'s mission.

Flaiani was honored for his dedication to the Lake County area American Heart Walks for the last three years.

Executive vice president of First Midwest Bank in Waukegan, Flaiani started his work with the AHA as a company leader for the American Heart Walk, recruiting fellow employees for the Highland Park event. Last year he served as co-chair of the Waukegan Heart Walk which raised $16,000; this year, Flaiani is a member of the recruitment committee for the event.

The American Heart Assn. of Metropolitan Chicago's Heart Torch Award for Program was presented to Gurnee resident Marion Henderson at the association's 75th annual meeting. Henderson is health and safety specialist with Allegiance Health Care in McGaw Park.

The Heart Torch, which is given to an individual who has provided the American Heart Assn. with exceptional leadership in a specific program area, was awarded to Henderson for her leadership as the chair of the AHA's Emergency Cardiac Care (ECC) Committee.

Henderson, who shares this award with 12 other committee members, is being honored for establishing ECC Community Training Centers that provide a more efficient method for administering ECC programs and quality training throughout metropolitan Chicago.

I was treated for prostate cancer two days ago. Today, I'm back in the office.

New advances in the treatment of prostate cancer have made it possible for many men to get back to their normal routine, even as soon as two days after treatment.

One of the treatments which provides this benefit is seed implantation, a non-surgical, outpatient procedure which places a radiation source, or "seeds", inside of the prostate. Once inside, the seeds deliver radiation directly to the prostate, attacking the cancer while you continue your normal daily routine.

Seed implantation therapy is just one of several treatment options for prostate cancer available at Midwestern Regional Medical Center, one of the most highly rated hospitals in the U.S.* Midwestern's cancer program is managed by Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

In addition to advanced medical care, Midwestern also offers support therapies including diet planning, vitamin and mineral supplementation, support groups, counseling and pastoral care.

To learn more about treatment options for prostate cancer, please call Cancer Treatment Centers of America toll-free at 1-800-940-2822.

Breast, cervical cancer research grants announced

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health has awarded seven grants, totaling $433,900, for breast and cervical cancer research, Dr. John R. Lumpkin, state public health director, announced.

"Critical research into the causes, prevention and treatment of breast and cervical cancer must be ongoing," said Dr. Lumpkin. "These research grants contribute significantly to advancing these efforts."

Invasive breast cancer is diagnosed in approximately 7,300 Illinois women annually and claims the lives of 2,200 each year.

Nearly 710 women in Illinois learn they have invasive cervical cancer each year and about 220 women die annually from the disease.

The grant monies are from state appropriations and the Breast and Cervical Cancer Research Fund, a special fund to which taxpayers can contribute through their IL-1040 income tax returns. Since 1993, 34 research projects have received nearly $1.4 million—$456,000 of which had been contributed through the tax fund.

Grant requests were reviewed by the department in consultation with the Illinois Breast and Cervical Cancer Research Fund Advisory and Peer Review committees. Members of the advisory committee include representatives of the Illinois Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Y-Me, the State Board of Health and Department.

The seven grant recipients are:

- Mary Hunzicker-Dunn, Northwestern Univ., "Role of PKC—(differential variation) in the growth of human breast cancer cells," $75,000.

- Wijbe Martin Kast, Loyola Univ., "Analysis of the signal transducing zeta chain in peripheral T-cells of patients with cervical cancer," $68,000.

- Martin Mueller, Loyola Univ., "Characterization of chimeric papillomavirus particles," $50,000.

- Benette Phillips, Northwestern Univ., "Novel regulatory elements in the HPV18 long control region (amount not determined)."

- Miriam B. Rodin, Northwestern Univ., "A randomized comparison of peer education for local community-based breast cancer screening," $45,400.

- Liang Qiao, MD, Loyola Univ., "DNA vaccine to treat HPV expressing tumors," $67,400.

- Bayar Thimmapaya, Northwestern Univ., "Gene therapy for breast cancer," $58,900.

Illinois' voluntary income tax funds must raise a minimum of $100,000 each year to remain on the IL-1040 form. By mid June, the Breast and Cervical Cancer Research Fund had received more than $118,000 in taxpayer contributions from the 1996 tax year and will appear on the 1997 tax forms for the fifth consecutive year.

“If I'd known how well they take care of you, I would've arrived sooner.”

At Saint Therese Medical Center we see a successful birth as “just the beginning” of what we provide for you and your child. Which means that your baby can look forward to comprehensive and personalized care far beyond the day of birth. For example, soon after you leave, our Mother/Baby Wellness Program provides you with home visits from one of our program nurses. During these meetings the nurse will perform a complete health assessment and provide you with a wealth of baby care information, including bathing, cord care, nutrition and breast feeding education.

To ensure the best possible medical care as your baby grows up, Saint Therese boasts the most advanced ambulatory surgical unit in Lake County, a state-of-the-art CAT scanner and an accessible out-patient rehabilitation and sports medical center in Gurnee. We've also assembled an outstanding and highly trained medical staff including doctors and specialists hailing from some of the top medical schools and teaching hospitals in the country.

It's the kind of complete care, and the amount of pride our staff takes in it, that keeps families coming back to Saint Therese. In fact, it's what makes some family members want to arrive a little sooner than expected.

Birthing centers: A family experience

by RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

When most of our mothers gave birth, our fathers were pacing the floor of the waiting room. They weren't given the opportunity to share in the child's birth.

Today, fathers in the delivery room are as common as they once were uncommon, but the circle has widened to also include siblings, grandparents and sometimes good friends.

Along with the change in attitude toward birth has also come a change in appearance. Few delivery rooms today, look like the sterile operating rooms of the past. Now, the rooms are decorated in pleasing colors meant to relax the patient with softer lighting and more comfortable bedding and furniture. Today, most hospitals feature birthing rooms where the new mother can labor, deliver and recover. They are complete with small sitting areas, televisions and are meant to resemble more of a home living room setting than a hospital.

"The concept behind the family center, is to make the birthing process more family oriented," said Sue Keeley, manager of the family center at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan. "By being a part of the process, the family is better prepared when the baby comes home."

Keeley says the concept of having labor, delivery and recovery occur in the same room, is far better for patient care than the old-fashioned concept of moving the patient between labor, delivery and recovery.

"It's hard to move when you're in labor or just given birth," said Keeley.

"By having the whole process occur in just one room, the patient has a greater comfort level. Anytime a patient can be more relaxed during labor it's going to be a better experience for mom and baby."

At Victory's Family Center, patients are moved into a private room for their postpartum stay after the recovery period.

Although it had only been five years between births, Dana King of Park City agreed the family birthing center was a much more pleasant experience than her first one.

Forest Preserve bonds buy 1,800 acres

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

The Lake County Forest Preserve will vote on going forward with plans to purchase a 533-acre preserve site in Wauconda Township at their July 18th meeting.

If the notice of intent is approved and the land owners agreeable to a purchase price, the parcel will likely be the last one purchased from the $20 million bond passed by voters in 1993 for land acquisition.

"We will be tapped out after that," said Forest Preserve President Bob Buhai (D-Highland Park). "But, we won't write the check next month, this is a process that will likely take a year or two to complete."

ThunderHawk seeks Audubon 'Signature' tag

Beach Park golf course to blend in with nature, provide challenge

By BRENDAN O'NEILL
Sports Editor

To the untrained eye it looks like mounds of dirt and rubble in a vacant lot. But, to a professional golf course architect, this sight marks the beginning of the development of a new and challenging golf course.

The location of this golf course in progress is in Beach Park, between 29th and 33rd street on Lewis Avenue, and the professional architect involved is Robert Trent Jones, Jr. Jones is an internationally known golf course architect who is affectionately known as the Frank Lloyd Wright of golf courses.

The site for the new Zion course is a 243-acre stretch of land that Jones is going to transform into an Audubon "Signature" course, which is a distinction only given to courses that adhere to strict environmental guidelines in design and management.

The Audubon "Signature" designation ensures the course is built with respect to nature, with a liberal use of trees and an attempt to blend the course in with the environment, to mold the environment, not change it.

The ThunderHawk golf course will be the fifth course for the Lake County Forest Preserve, including Brae Loch in Grayslake and Countryside in Mundelein, which carries the Audubon distinction.

The construction and development for the ThunderHawk golf course will cost between $4.3-5 million, and is on schedule to open for play in the spring of 1999.

Jones said that the course will compare favorably to any course in the Lake County area, and will be a very competitive course.

"This course will be wonderful," said Jones. "The players will really be able to tell that this is a quality, sport-only course, no housing project is involved."

Jones said that the Audubon movement in golf course design has been around since about 1989, but that he has been working toward a similar reality since long before, but only recently has the technology evolved to make it possible.

"We're using the Audubon approach more now than ever before," said Jones. "Before we didn't have the equipment to work with the wildlife."

The Audubon "Signature" designation is not assured to the ThunderHawk course, it must be earned through approval from Audubon International, not to be confused with the Audubon Society.

Throughout development and upon completion, the course will be inspected to make sure that everything meets with Audubon's standards.

The construction of ThunderHawk began in late December, and construction includes the transplantation of more than 400 trees, installation of a deep well for course irrigation, and seeding of the course which is scheduled for sometime in August.

Jones, president and principle designer for Robert Trent Jones II International, said that the course will incorporate the existing 15-acres of wetlands with an additional 17-acres of marsh and a 6-acre lake to bring the course's total wetlands to 32 acres, resembling some of the older European courses which inspired the Audubon course concept.

Jones said that this course will use some of the same principles and techniques that old golf courses in Scotland maintained—no real form to the course, meshed with nature, "sheep were the mowers and rain the irrigation," according to Jones.

When ThunderHawk opens for play in the spring of 1999, it will feature an 18-hole championship course, quality driving range and has a projected gross revenue of $1.3 million in the first year.

It may not look like much right now, but by the time ThunderHawk opens its doors to all of the duffers, hackers and weekend warriors, it will look as though it has always been there.

Golf course architect Robert Trent Jones, Jr. and Dan Prezell of the Lake County Forest Preserve look over sketches for the ThunderHawk course, which is under construction in Beach Park. The course will carry the Audubon Signature Tag and blend nature with a challenging golf course. —Photo by Sandy Bressner

BIRTHING CENTER: Bringing families together

"This was a more relaxed environment. My first birth was in a more hospital-like setting, more like an operating room," King said. "I found this much more enjoyable."

Her husband, James King, agreed. "My little sister was even here for a while. It was great for all of us."

Another aspect of labor and delivery which has changed over the years, is the amount of self-care and the length of stay.

"When most of our mothers had children, the average stay for a regular delivery was three to five days," Keeley said. "Our grandmothers stayed for seven to 10 days and often times patients weren't allowed to get out of bed for several days. Today, we get patients up out of bed as soon as possible after delivery. We encourage bonding with the infant and for the patient to learn right away how to care for the baby."

Hospital stays for birth have run the full-course from 10 days, 50 years ago to 24 hours for the past several years until the federal government stepped in late last year and changed the law to require insurance companies to cover stays of 48 hours for routine deliveries and 96 hours for cesarean births.

"I think the change in the law was vital for patient care," Keeley said. "Especially for first time moms, they need the time to adjust and learn while in the hospital. Nurses are required to teach the mothers how to take care of the newborn. They often need the reassurance which comes with a longer hospital stay, to become comfortable taking care of the baby."

Keeley says, however, that despite the change in the law, many patients are still going home 24 hours after giving birth.

"When I hear that, I always make sure the patient understands the insurance company must cover 48-hours of care," Keeley said. "Some patients still choose to go home within 24 hours, and for some, especially second and third-time moms, that may be okay. We won't argue with a patient who wants to go home, but we do make sure, they understand they can stay for 48 hours."

Keeley said the length of stay is particularly important so that patients can be taught to care for themselves and their babies.

"We know that the first 12 hours after birth, the patient doesn't learn," Keeley said. "When patients were going home routinely after 24 hours, the nurses had about 12 hours of time to do all the teaching required." One way Victory accomplishes the teaching is through a closed-circuit television system where videos on such topics as "how to bathe an infant" and "breast-feeding" are shown. Additionally, the patients are sent home with a video on baby care, several pamphlets of instruction which are easy to follow and meant to be handy reference material.

"We also encourage them to call the nursery 24 hours a day for reassurance if they need it," Keeley said.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Villages meeting on gangs

Round Lake area—Five area mayors, including Hainesville and the four Round Lake area villages, are working to form a collective mission statement regarding the issue of gangs.

Bauer: 'Locked us in and threw away the key.'

The mayors met for the first time July 2 to begin formulating the statement, and discussing ways they can assist each other. All of them have acknowledged a gang problem within their communities.

James Rock, Round Lake Area Park District executive director, and Mary Davis, Round Lake Unit Schools superintendent, were also credited with bringing the mayors together on the issue.

"They locked us in and threw away the key," joked Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer.

"I am optimistic we can accomplish a lot with the five villages working together," said Round Lake Beach Mayor Ralph Davis.

The five will meet again on July 24 to refine a mission statement. If approved, it will be presented to the respective village boards for a joint resolution.

Millburn addition finished on time

Old Mill Creek—Millburn School, greeted around 130 visitors at the unveiling of its completed 10-room middle school addition to serve grades sixth through eighth.

The $1.5 million addition was the product of a successful March, 1996 referendum, to extend building bonds without additional costs to taxpayers.

With climbing enrollment at the school, Superintendent Jim Menzer is hoping the addition will hold their student body for a minimum of three years depending on the pace of development.

The largest impacts to the district at this point are development of Deerpath subdivision on Route 45, Heritage Trails along Grass Lake Road and Country Place along Sand Lake Road. The Forest Trail development has also begun construction along Route 45, in Millburn.

Teachers consider reform plan

Round Lake—Education Association of Round Lake officials will present a reform plank approved by the National Education Association convention calling for the union to rid their ranks of non-performing teachers.

The peer review option would allow local unions to have a review process set up by their organization to weed out teachers who aren't making the grade. They would have the final decision, not the school administration, according to Kim Kearby, EARL president.

Kearby explained he will present the plan to school representatives in August. The representatives will then bring it to the rank and file to determine what direction they desire.

PrimeCo sues village for tower

Wauconda—PrimeCo Personal Communications has filed a lawsuit against Wauconda to "force its hand" to allow the telecommunications company to place a 150-foot monopole in town.

The complaint was filed July 3 in the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division of Chicago, in response to the village board's refusal to approve a height variance ordinance.

The lawsuit is the first PrimeCo has filed against an Illinois community. "We are very disappointed it has come to this," said Bridget Brennan, regional communications manager for PrimeCo. Village Attorney Rudolph F. Magna said it was the first time he has heard of a telecommunications firm suing a Chicago-metro area community.

Purse snatcher charged in robbery

Park City—Park City and Waukegan police have charged a homeless person with robbery in purse snatching incidents.

Curtis Glover, 36, was charged with robbery in two Park City incidents and one in Waukegan. He was being held in Lake County Jail on a $1 million bond.

Glover would attempt to rob women who were alone in public areas such as parking lots of apartment buildings, according to police. Glover was arrested in Waukegan July 1.

Other towns such as Gurnee, Libertyville, North Chicago and Waukegan have reported purse snatchings in the past few weeks. They may be attempting to prosecute Glover as well, according to Luff.

Fox Lake Police Chief retires

Fox Lake—In the midst of a major effort to reorganize and restaff the village's front offices, the Fox Lake Village Board faced a new vacancy to fill at its meeting of July 7: that of police chief.

Having risen from patrolman to chief in more than 30 years with the department, James Busch tendered his resignation into retirement, accepted by the board, to be effective midnight July 7.

Busch could not be reached for comment on future plans.

The board appointed Lt. Edward Gerretsen as interim acting chief while it seeks a full-time replacement. Gerretsen appears, in the words of Mayor Jim Pappas, to be "a very strong candidate" for the job.

Activists sue County, Del Re for violation of rights

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

Days before the 34th Annual Wauconda Rodeo, animal activists representing the Chicago Animal Rights Coalition filed a formal complaint in United States District Court against Lake County, Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re and five sheriff's deputies who are alleged to have been involved in arrests of activists at the past three rodeos.

"Their intentions for an arrest is not to get a conviction," said Greg Campbell, one of 10 plaintiffs named in the lawsuit. "Their intention is to keep us from protesting."

The 27-page complaint was filed July 8 in Chicago, with the intention of having a hearing held July 10 to request a temporary restraining order, allowing them to protest at the rodeo July 11, 12 and 13 without being unlawfully arrested, Campbell said.

The lawsuit also seeks damages for injuries sustained in arrests, as well as for the violation of the activists' first and fourth amendment rights.

"This whole thing stems from the lack of prosecuting animal abuse," Campbell said, also alluding to the lack of prosecuting the sheriff's deputies who activists allege battered them during arrests.

Calls left for Lake County States Attorney Michael J. Waller and Lake County Board Chairman Robert L. Grever were not returned.

Del Re said he could not comment on the lawsuit as he had yet to see a copy of it. However, he said he stood by the actions of his deputies.

"I am convinced we have acted lawfully all along the line," he said.

Campbell contends the sheriff's deputies have denied the first amendment rights of the protesters, guaranteeing them the right to free speech and assembly. "They are acting to squelch our rights to do so," he said.

He also said their fourth amendment right of unlawful search and seizure has been violated with the confiscation of equipment at last year's rodeo and allegedly knocking people to the ground.

(Both instances are shown in a documentary produced for the activists by the Earth Network of Highland Park. The program titled "Bucking the Rodeo" which has aired on several area cable outlets.)

Campbell hopes to have lifted a restraining order in which he is required to keep 3,000 feet away from the rodeo for the next 18 months due to a conviction stemming from obstruction of justice at the 1996 rodeo.

Activists already won one battle after a Lake County judge saw through what Campbell calls "the plans of the State's Attorney's office to keep them away from the rodeo."

As part of the bond for nine activists who appeared in Lake County Court July 7 and 8 on charges of trespassing and using megaphones at the 1996 rodeo, the state's attorney's office tried put a condition on their bonds to keep them away from this year's rodeo.

In both cases, an attorney representing the activists argued that the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that anti-abortion protesters can stand 15-feet away from the person they are protesting against, which would also apply to the rodeo protesters.

Judge John T. Phillips agreed.

Del Re said as long as the activists do not interfere with the right of others to enjoy the rodeo, it is all right to protest.

Protesters are scheduled to meet with deputy sheriff's July 11 to determine where they will be allowed to stand at the rodeo fairgrounds (at the Golden Oaks Equestrian Center, located near Wauconda at Route 12 and Case Road between Route 120 and 176) and protest. A meeting scheduled for July 9 in the Lake County Building in Waukegan was canceled one day before it was to be held.

Space available for public purchase

Lost often in the noise and dust of bulldozers tearing up land for more rooftops or parking space is the fact that Lake County still is endowed with a considerable amount of open space that has preservation potential.

That is precisely the case of two parcels totalling 533 acres on the east side of Rte. 12 between Rtes. 60 and 176 that is under consideration for acquisition by the Lake County Forest Preserve District. The pieces, located in Wauconda Township, offer a convenient tie to Forest Preserve lands in Libertyville and Mundelein and a link to other district property in the Round Lake and Grayslake area.

Michael Fenelon, district director of planning, conservation and development, also sees an opportunity to go west to McHenry County and Moraine State Park.

As a step toward purchase, the district will serve "notice of acquisition" to trustees controlling the 317 and 216 acre parcels. Long-time followers of Forest Preserve land purchase policies will appreciate the "notice of acquisition" procedure as a much kinder and gentler tone than former land acquisition policies. Many property owners reacted negatively to the former "we want your land" approach handed down amid veiled threats of condemnation that led to a political overhaul and election of opponents of preservation. The reorganization set back the pace of Forest Preserve expansion nearly 10 years.

Besides taking a more conciliatory approach to land acquisition, current county leadership also is inclined to seek out larger parcels, a philosophy that is counter, but much preferred in our opinion, to the former administration.

Besides locating meaningful acquisitions, county leaders have the additional challenge of making sure sufficient funds are available when willing sellers are located. It would be a shame if the money supply is dissipated before the supply of suitable preservation sites runs out.

United Way finds new ways to serve

At United Way of Lake County, day to day and week to week activities are significant stepping stones for the annual campaign to raise funds to support four dozen participating social service agencies. The future is built upon the past. Last year $7.6 million was raised. The aim this year is to exceed last year. This is the way charitable fund raising works.

It is significant to note, with the start of the 1997 fund campaign only a few weeks away, one of the signal accomplishments last year was a significant alteration in the fund distribution process. Changes were implemented to more quickly direct funds to high need areas and provide for donors to see more quickly the impact of their dollars.

United Way of Lake County adopted four community funding goals, requiring recipient agencies to impact one of the following: (1) strengthen families, and nurture children and youth; (2) promote physical and mental health, and wellness; (3) increase long-term independence and self-sufficiency, and (4) provide emergency food, shelter and crisis management services.

In their annual report, chairman of the Board David J. Thompson and Douglas E. Weber, United Way president and chief professional officer, stressed that special emphasis was given to programs addressing a gap in service to families with young children, programs addressing the prevention of HIV, teen pregnancy, school dropouts, child abuse and violence. In order to receive funding, the program needed to be a collaborative effort between two or more agencies.

Redefining priorities enabled United Way of Lake County to address high priority needs that otherwise might have fallen outside traditional funding approaches.

VIEWPOINT

Surveys confuse instead of reveal

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Maybe politicians, especially our representatives in Congress, often seem confused and out of touch because they try and make sense out of the surveys they send voters.

Everyone in political life, it seems, conducts opinion surveys. With their franking privileges, a mailed survey is a cheap way to keep in touch with the folks back home. It's also a convenient hook, as many in Washington do, to tap unsuspecting electors for a campaign contribution.

I plowed through results of the 1997 constituent survey conducted by Congressman John Porter, the highly respected Republican who represents the diverse 10th Congressional District covering east Lake County and the high income North Shore.

Porter tossed a few softballs at the voters and included a toughie about the U.S. posture toward ballistic missile attack. A total of 11,576 sent in responses.

There were some grave inconsistencies in philosophy exposed. Like 10th Dist. folks want the federal government to shrink tax dollars spent on national parks, yet they're ready to gobble up tax credits to help pay for college. Do voters think the federal government can give without taking?

Voters were about equally divided on cutting, raising or leaving the federal gasoline tax as is. Does Porter use a dart board on this one?

There was no solid direction expressed in the survey on a question of the propriety of federal agencies using race, gender or ethnicity in awarding grants and contracts. Get out the crystal ball.

OK, I'm getting too tense about these surveys on public policy. They're all the fun.

If only they were.

Squirrel season

Before Ameritech crams in another new area code of 11-digit dialing, they'll have to get past State Rep. Jeffrey Schoenberg (D-Evanston) who is out to block new area codes in the collar counties.

If the telecommunication industry isn't reigned in, there'll be new codes instituted. Hawthorne Woods, Lincolnshire, Long Grove, Riverwoods and Vernon Hills are among county towns targeted for two separate area codes if a geographic split is approved. Schoenberg, who blew the whistle on the state's cozy no-bid lease deal with a prominent county politician, wants to stop the practice of squirreling away phone numbers.

Milwaukee wins

Lake Countians give Brew Town the edge for the preferred big city summer festival over Taste of Chicago. Local folks like Milwaukee's Summer Fest for the ease of access, friendlier concessionaires and menu. This column's vote goes to the local tastes. We'll stay close to home.

Worthy honor

Now that the final hurdle has been cleared to rename the North Shore Bicycle Path as the Robert McClory Bicycle Path, it's worth wondering why it took so long to memorialize the popular long-time political leader?

Bob McClory served with distinction in both Illinois houses and in Congress, fulfilling a pivotal role during the trying Watergate crisis. He was a Lake County political leader who rose to national prominence. U.S. Rep. John Porter, McClory's successor, and Congressman McClory's widow, Doris, presented a resolution this week to the Lake County Board for the name change. The McClory recognition is long overdue.

Better drive

Unless you're a marathon runner, better plan on driving Sunday, July 13 to take in the Mundelein Garden Walk, a free event featuring six luxurious gardens noon to 4 p.m. rain or shine. Show places are spread from Sylvan Lake and Countryside to the village. Patti DeMasi is in charge and can be reached at 670-3056 for details.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cut out 'panky' projects

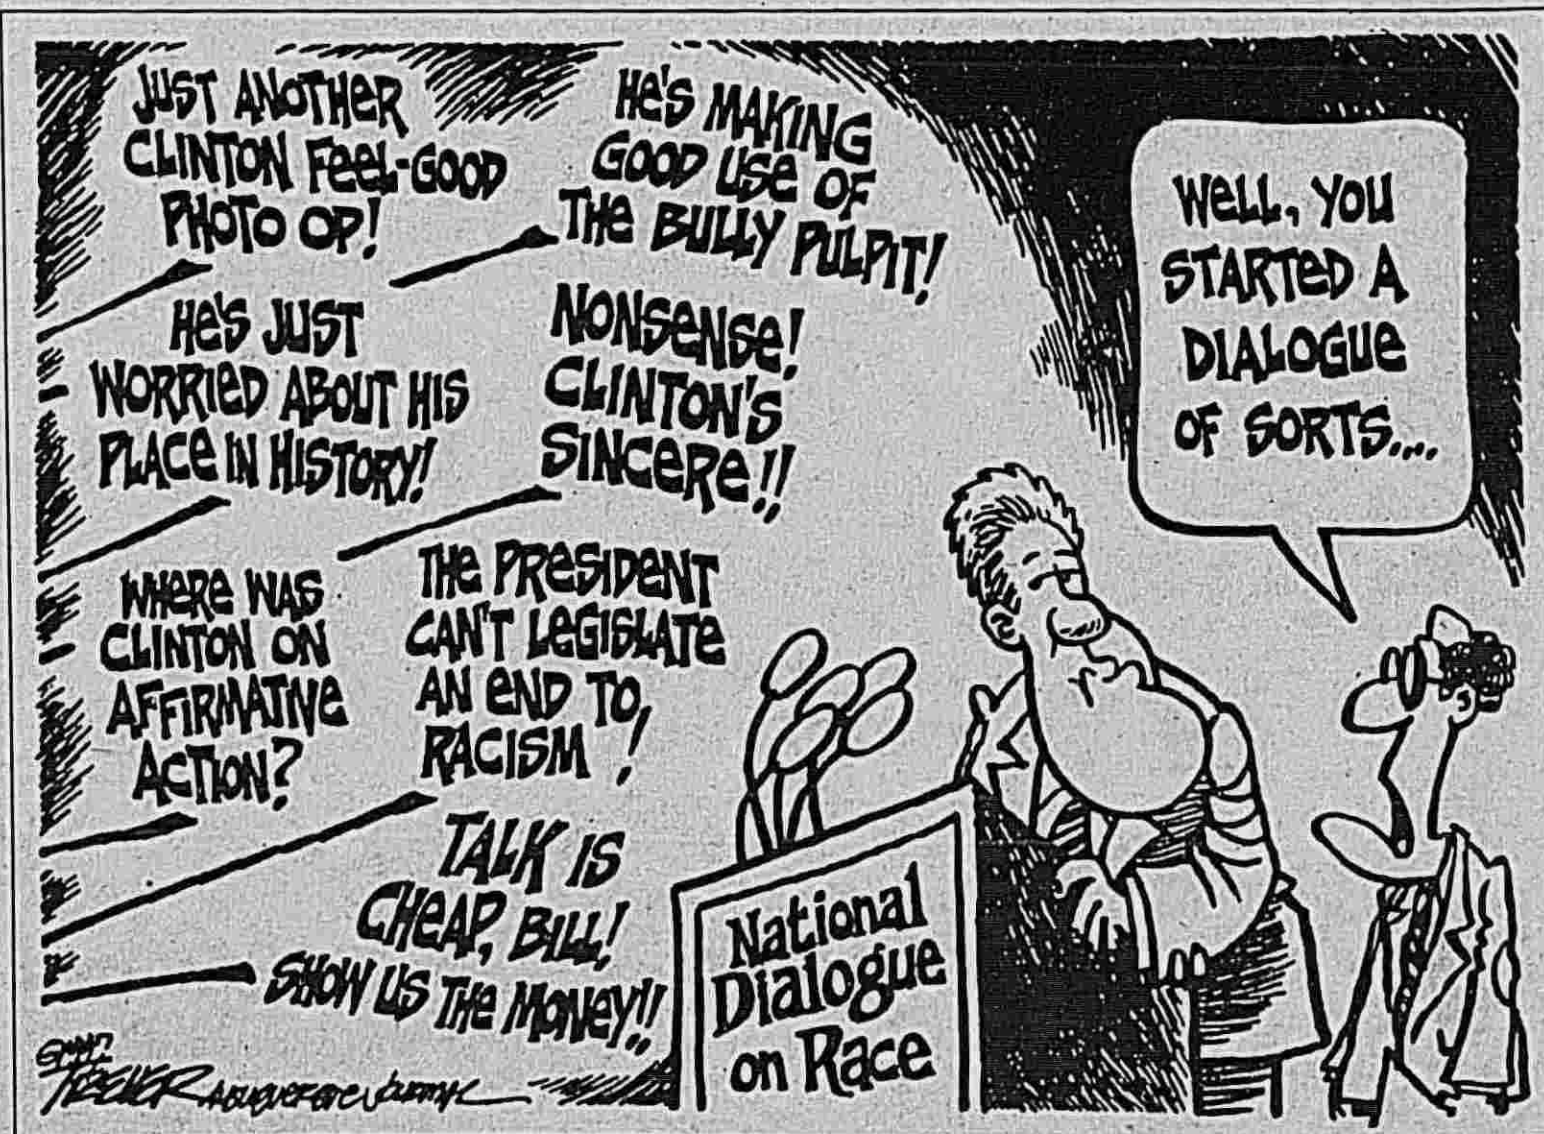

If you hate paying higher taxes, better set up watch on the Lake County Board and its Planning and Zoning Committee. It can change rows of corn to rows of houses. New developments require increased police and fire protection, drinking water, sewers, road maintenance, schools, teachers, you name it. Up goes your tax bill. Down goes your lifestyle. And gone forever are the natural vistas and open spaces that wooed you here in the first place.

The planning problem is critical. Between 1991 and last year, Lake County cropland declined 37 percent, from 69,625 acres to 44,000 acres not counting nurseries, according to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Farm Service Agency for this area.

You'd think board members would be working closely with municipalities to bring about a prudent balance of residential, agricultural and commercial development, allowing for open

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Well paid Lake County

Only one administrator made the state's top 10 highest paid public school executives. Robert Kessler, head of Lake Forest High, is paid $147,326 for a ninth place ranking. Illinois' top paid school chief gets $190,124 per year.

Looking at 1998

Strategists already are crafting plans for re-election of County Board Reps. Al Westerman (R-Wadsworth) and Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake), the "giant killers" of 1996. They expect Dick Raftis to make a comeback attempt against Cole, putting an unknown distaff candidate into the race to split the female vote.

Westerman fully expects an all-out assault on his seat from the building and real estate industry. "They'll throw the book at me," exclaims the environmentalist, who now is devoting full time to county duties. Translation: Pro-growth forces will spend freely to bring about the downfall of Westerman.

Don't bother

Builders of Hutchins Woods Subdivision in Warren Township already have gotten word to County Board Rep. Pam Newton (R-Vernon Hills), chairman of Planning, Building and Zoning, not to expect any reconfiguration of their homes project that will rise 10 feet above the grade level of Mill Creek Crossing neighbors who are protesting to Newton. As chairperson, Newton is getting new insight into building practices in unincorporated areas.

Early line

Robert "Bob" Sabonjian, Jr., is all but confirmed to challenge County Board Rep. Jim Stanczak (R-Waukegan) in the 1998 general election. Sabonjian has a golden

Raftis: 'Staging a comeback.'

Newton: 'Learning on the job.'

Pappas: 'No more room at plant.'

name, both in politics and business. His late father, "Bob the Rock," was equally feared and revered as mayor of Waukegan. The senior Sabonjian made local political history in a dramatic party switch from Democrat to Republican. Bob Jr. will be running all the way as a Democrat.

Double pleasure

Comptroller Loleta Didrickson, who is keeping everyone guessing about her next political move, believes in covering all bases when it comes to raising campaign funds.

She has scheduled two events in Lake County to aid the Committee to Elect Didrickson for (whatever). Thursday, July 24, friends will pony up $200 each at Deerpath Inn, Lake Forest. Tuesday, Sept. 16, backers have reserved Mickey Finn's Brewery, Libertyville, where tickets will be $200 each. Antonietta Simonian is organizing both events.

Out of room

Grant Township area residents are finding out the sewage treatment plant may not have the capacity needed to carry the area into the foreseeable future. Fox Lake Mayor Jim Pappas told other municipal leaders the plant will be at capacity within four years not seven as reported by the previous administration.

On the farm

Rockford area Republican Don Manzullo (R-16th) took his message to a local farm with a news conference on the proposed Republican tax cut bill, which GOPers say will cut taxes by $85 billion over five years. Manzullo's district extends into the eastern edges of McHenry County.

Are we running out of national treasures?

When actor James Stewart died last week, obituary writers trotted out a rarely used tribute. He was a national treasure, they said.

Stewart was 89 and cherished by almost a whole century of Americans.

President Clinton said, "America lost a national treasure today. Jimmy Stewart was a great actor, a gentleman and a patriot."

Are we running out of national treasures? How many are left? Bob Hope, 94, comes to mind. Katharine Hepburn is 87 and Frank Sinatra 81.

It seems most of our American icons emerge from the entertainment world. That's where we escape the racket of reality and where performers like Jimmy Stewart give us the kind of decent, honest, down-home stuff that America is supposed to be about.

In Stewart's case, those close to him said, he was just playing himself.

President Harry Truman once said, "If Bess and I had a son, we'd want him to be just like Jimmy Stewart."

Unlike entertainers, politicians aren't on the primrose path that leads to national treasureship. Have any of our recent presidents enjoyed such profuse popularity? Truman, perhaps. Ronald Reagan, maybe. Bill Clinton? I don't think so.

Other stars of Hollywood's golden age who arguably became national treasures include Jimmy Stewart's best friend, Henry Fonda, and Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart, John Wayne, Cary Grant and Fred Astaire.

Advertisements for a current movie, "Out to Sea," boast that it features "two national treasures, Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon."

One doesn't have to be old to be a national treasure. Elvis Presley and Marilyn Monroe attained that lofty status before their too-soon deaths,

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

Elvis at 42 and Marilyn at 36.

Shirley Temple, at 6, probably became a national treasure earlier than anyone. She's 69 now and recently was our ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

In the sports world we have Arnold Palmer, who will be 68 in September, and Michael Jordan, who was 34 in February. Does Tiger Woods, 21, look like a sure thing?

Sorry, baseball fans, Babe Ruth wasn't that lovable.

The entertainment world today is blessed with a bevy of brilliant and likable young stars. Will some of them become the national treasures of tomorrow?

"Not unless they clean up their language," says a 60-year-old friend.

"He's wrong," says a 30-year-old. "Today's movies simply reflect how people talk today. It's everywhere, even on T-shirts."

Alas and alack, the generation gap.

I would guess Paul Newman and Kevin Costner may wind up as national treasures. Tom Hanks, too, says my son, Tony. I'm sure my wife would vote for Steve Martin, John Travolta and Nicolas Cage.

How about Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis? Obituary writers remembered her as "one of the nation's most beautiful, fascinating and admired women, a woman of almost mythical poise and strength."

When a Jimmy Stewart dies, and is extolled as a national treasure, I always think of Shakespeare's Prince Hamlet saying of his deceased father, the king of Denmark: "He was a man. Take him for all in all, I shall not look upon his like again."

space, forests, and prairies.

We should be so lucky. Instead the so-called open-space and development factions are fighting among themselves, evidence the conflict over naming Dick Raftis to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

By a 2 to 1 margin, voters rejected Raftis' bid for re-election to the County Board in favor of a candidate who opposed his pro-development actions, so what does Board Chairman Bob Grever do but announce his intention to appoint Raftis to the Zoning Board of Appeals. That inflamed board members who oppose rampant development.

It has been argued that Raftis, manager of the Lake County Farm Bureau knows the complexities of zoning law. Maybe so, but there must be others in this county who are just as qualified and whose nomination wouldn't have widened the rift on the County Board.

Grever could have named such a person but he didn't. Instead, he and his cronies pushed through the Raftis nomination, according to the recent letter from Board Member Martha A. Marks of Riverwoods. We need more people like her who are courageous enough, politics notwithstanding, to speak out and tell it like it is.

The vote also tells us a lot about where the sentiments of Grever and his cronies lie and their determination to develop an overall plan for Lake County to enhance our lifestyles and enable us to live with one another happily ever after.

If you're sick and tired of these shenanigans, speak up. Tell your board member to cut out the hanky-panky and get to work.

Aid to brutal regime

The only thing Congressman John

Porter wants to do is slap the Chinese wrist. He won't cut off the "corporate welfare" that props up trade with Communist China: the tax subsidized Export-Import Bank, World Bank/IMF U.S. taxpayer financed loans, government "enhanced trade credits," ad nauseam. And heaven help us if we stop the tax subsidies to Planned Parenthood and others who aid the Communist Chinese policy of forced abortion.

In the play "A Man for All Seasons," after Richard Rich has perjured himself in the trial of Sir Thomas More, More confronts the new "Treasurer for Wales" and says "What profits a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul—soul Richard, you did it for Wales." John Porter has lost his precious credibility on human rights, merchandised so cheaply on MFN for China. When this ghastly business of appeasing Communist China is shown for the folly it is, I am sure Mr. Porter will be financially comfortable with his $2.5 million tax subsidized pension and the "gratitude" of his big corporate bosses. But I wouldn't want to be in his shoes as he tries explains to his old constituents and his God why he gave aid and comfort to the most brutal regime on earth today.

Turn lights on in rain

For all you dopes out there, you have to have your lights on when it's raining, whether it's your regular or intermittent wipers. Please follow the law!

What will it be?

I'm from Antioch and I was wondering if the old McDonald's was going to remain vacant much longer. It looks terrible right now. Rumor has it it will be a Pizza Hut. Can village officials let us know what's going to happen to that building?

Strike a pose

I'm interested in getting my 8-year-old son into modeling. Can anyone tell me of a reputable modeling agency in the area or the Chicagoland area that I can call? I was told that if they saw your child and liked what they saw, they would take pictures and it shouldn't cost you anything. I've talked to people who want a lot of money up front and it doesn't sound right.

Thanks for compassion

I'd like to again thank the lady at the laundromat next to Piggly Wiggly in Antioch. She gave me a glass of ice water and not only did she help me with my laundry, she folded my two heavy quilts and took them to the car for me. She had so much compassion. Thanks again!

Antioch

Borrowed time

I'm a concerned citizen of Round Lake. For the last couple of weeks I've called the mayor's office to ask to have our streets swept because it's still under construction and little kids are falling. It's a joke. I pushed to have this mayor kept in office and now it doesn't seem like he wants to do the job. He's only got so many years to be mayor and he can get booted out.

Cut the grass!

Just calling to say that the building department of Round Lake Beach is a complete joke. They have no idea what they're doing. The grass on Honeysuckle Road is at least 4-foot high. There's a sign posted in there describing people to call them and I'm aware of at least five different neighbors who've called and they always say, "We'll get someone out there." They say they have to have a complaint for 10 days. The people were evicted Jan. 1, there's a padlock on the door. Cut the grass! Mayor Davis, where are you?

Boating courtesy

Hats off to courteous boaters! Coming too close to the shoreline, I ran into some shallow water and a rock bed, leaving my boat dead in the water with five passengers. (Note to the Fox Waterway Agency: Place a warning buoy at this point; we find this is a frequent occurrence.) Waving down a passing boat, we had the good fortune to meet Doug Sanders, who was visiting his parent's summer home on Coon Island. Doug offered to tow our boat back to Halings Landing after finding out Mineola Marine was closed for the night. When I offered to compensate Doug, he wouldn't accept anything but our thanks and stated that he was sure another boater would come along to help him if he was in such a predicament. We consider ourselves fortunate to have run into Doug Sanders and his philosophy of helping other boaters is commendable. Our compliments to the senior Sanders' for raising such a nice son.

Watch your kids

This is for the so-called parents between 29 and 35. They have children, but they don't watch them. They're running in the street, almost getting hit by cars. When they get hit, they'll blame the drivers. The children run in and out of garages, sit in other people's cars, honk the horns, take out all the tools in the garages. The mothers and fathers are inside watching TV or talking on the phone. When are they going to start watching their children?

Old-town thinking

I just finished re-reading the June 26 edition of the Lake Villa Record. There's things in there about Joyce Frayer being opposed to signs, etc. I've lived out here for 15 years and Joyce Frayer is a small-minded person with tunnel vision. She only has her own interests in mind. When she was mayor, she didn't listen to what people tried to tell her. She's still trying to impose her thoughts and wishes on this town. This town is growing and we're tired of old-town thinking.

Time to pave

To the mayor of Round Lake Beach and the village officials: How about taking a drive down the 1200 block of Woodridge Drive? I sure hope your vehicles can endure the ruts and potholes, not to mention the big chunks of the road that are scattered at the end of the block. We notice other streets have been repaved nicely. When is it Woodridge Drive's turn? It's a well traveled road with no stop sign, so the majority of cars use it. Come next election, you can bet your sign will not be posted in my yard. Speak up, other Woodridge residents!

Check it out

This is in regard to Vernon Hills'

supposed Suburban Lodges of America project. It sounds like this could easily become a furnished room transient hotel situation. I suggest the committee take a hard, long look at Suburban Lodge's governing by-laws regarding lodges. The city of Chicago tore down structures that, to me, were a lot like what this structure sounds like.

Got sick

I would like to know if anyone that was possibly swimming in the Chain of Lakes, specifically Lake Catherine, around June 29, got ill. All of my children got ill after they put their heads in the water and swam. My husband and I did not put our heads in the water and didn't get ill. If your kids got sick as well, please call the Health Department and let them know.

What about us?

I just got my Lake Zurich newsletter and all the mayor talks about is children. When are you going to get the message? There's more than children in Lake Zurich. What about the people who pay taxes? How about the old people, middle-aged, or people with teenagers? All the other things about kids should be in a school newsletter. This is a village newsletter.

Follow leash laws

I was reading the paper and I agree with Libertyville's police officer, who said they shouldn't go trapping coyotes because one person lost their pet to a coyote. If you have a pet, you should take proper care of them and not let them run loose. The leash law should be enforced or you should put a fence around your yard.

Let's have toy exchange

Our landfills are running out of space. How about an annual sale for people who have small children with toys, so all the plastic toys don't end up in the landfill or piled in their backyard? How about having a toy exchange or sale once a year?

Move it or lose it

I live in Island Lake and I read in the village newsletter from the Chief of Police Bach's message about vehicle stickers. There's 300 or 400 vehicles out there with no village stickers. If these officers can't do their jobs properly, let's replace them.

Fix lights

Is the village of Grayslake ever going to get their traffic lights fixed along Route 83? If you come through after midnight like I do, you might as well bring a book to read while you wait for the lights to change. They seem to have the timing all messed up or the sensors aren't working. It's very frustrating.

Pick it up

I'm calling from College Trails. I'd like people who walk their dogs at night to consider whose house they're leaving their dog's waste at. You leave it in the driveway or on the sidewalks. If it's your dog, it's your waste. Pick it up, please.

Building your word skills

Words fascinate me. They always have. For me, browsing in a dictionary is like being turned loose in a bank. —Eddie Cantor

I also have always had a fascination with words. There are so many I don't know. Experts estimate that there are more than one million words in the English language. Most adults know only a few thousand well enough to use them correctly.

I remember an old story about a fifth grade teacher who was teaching words and definitions to her class. She asked one little boy to use deduct, defeat, detail and defense in a sentence. He wrote: Defeat of deduct went over defense before detail. I'm not certain of the little boy's grade, but I think he went on to become a writer.

Knowing words, and how and when to use them is important. Every day someone judges us by the words we use or misuse. Do those around you think you are a dolt?

Improving your vocabulary

Increasing the number of words you recognize and can use correctly is easy and profitable. However, as with anything worthwhile, it does take some effort and time on your part. Here are some tips for growing your vocabulary.

- Read the "Readers Digest." It contains a section called "It Pays to Enrich Your Word Power." It's a 20-word quiz that will help you learn new words and their meanings. Add the ones you are unsure of to a list to work on later.

- Spend some time every week with your dictionary. Read all the words on two or three pages. When you find new words that you can use, write them down along with their meanings. Add these to your list.

- When you read or hear an unfamiliar word, look it up. If you hear an unknown word used in conversation, ask the user what it means and how to spell it. Write it down and add it to your list of new words.

- Make a "word builder" tape. After you've gathered words for a few weeks, record your new words on a tape. Listen to the tape as you're walking, exercising or driving. Try to add several words every month.

- Spend some time with your friendly thesaurus. Sometimes the exact word you're searching for just won't come to you. Other times you may find that you've used a word several times in your writing. A thesaurus can help you find a new or better word to use. Add new words you find here to your "word builder" tape.

- Read all the definitions of familiar words. For example, the simple word "jack." You'll find a jack is a common fellow as well as a lifting device. It also is: a male donkey, an electrical or phone receptacle, a playing card, a type of rabbit, slang for money, a type of vest and a male salmon. Did you know all that?

Just for practice

Here is a list of words to practice on. The longest word on this list contains only six letters. How many do you know? Are you sure?

Apt, bay (There are at least seven different meanings for bay). Can you name three or four?, congeal, dory, eke, fend, gasbag, hinny, indue, jeer, knack, larrup, mooch,

Tour of Home winners named

The record breaking 1997 Lake County Tour of Homes, a scattered-site showcase of homes covering many communities in Lake County as well as northern Cook County, has announced this year's tour award winners. Judged by architects, designers, builders and other industry professionals, award categories ranged from Best Kitchen to Best Overall Landscaping. Mark Buschman of Buschman Homes Inc., Lake Villa, was chairman of the tour.

More than 40 homes representing 30 builders, made up the tour which attracted over 5,000 people. The annual event features single family residences and townhomes priced from the low $100,000's to well over $1 million. In addition to having an opportunity to visit a wide variety of homes, tour-goers were also able to familiarize themselves with different communities.

Lake County residents make big contributions to McDonald House

Have you ever wondered what happened when you bought something with the promise that some of your purchase price would go to charity? Then here's good news for everyone who purchased a cellular telephone during the popular Cellular One/Ronald McDonald House promotion the past four years. According to information received by Michael DeBates at Pace Communications Services Corp., an authorized Cellular One Dealer with stores in Waukegan and Harvard, your contributions have raised over $4 million for a charity that directly benefits area children.

"I am amazed every year at the public's response to the Cellular One/Ronald McDonald House promotion," noted DeBates. "To think that this promotion has averaged over $1 million in donations for the last four years is remarkable. We attribute that to the high visibility of Ronald McDonald House, the increasing popularity of cellular phones and the generosity of people in this area."

"That last fact is often overlooked," continued DeBates. "Cellular One dealers throughout Lake County have always done very well with this promotion because the people in this area have good hearts and want to make a contribution to worthwhile activities. As a Cellular One dealer, I'm pleased that large corporations like McDonald's and Cellular One have the compassion to run a promotion like this one... and the vision to pool their resources to make it work!"

Over 400 McDonald's Restaurants and hundreds of Cellular One sales and services centers and dealers in Chicagoland, central Illinois and northwestern Indiana participated in the promotion. The program has a significant impact on the ability of Ronald McDonald House to provide services to area children and their families. According to a McDonald's spokesperson, the Cellular One/Ronald McDonald House promotion is the most successful fundraising effort for the charity.

For more information on this program, contact Jason DeBates, Pace Communications' Waukegan Store manager at 336-2063.

Pace Communications is locally owned by Michael and Jill DeBates with stores at 1720 Grand Ave. in Waukegan and 709 W. Brink St. in Harvard.

Employees recognized for commitment

Americans Stores Co., one of the nation's largest food and drug retailers, honored the Jewel-Osco store at 966 Route 59 in Antioch as team winner of the company's President's Medallion Award at a presentation during the annual shareholders' meeting. The President's Medallion award program recognizes stores and individuals who best exemplify the company's traditions and principles of dedicated service and commitment to customers and the community.

Last September, store employees, led by managers John Dunsing of Jewel and Craig Nuccio of Osco, acted quickly to avert possible danger when the Antioch Jewel-Osco store was affected by fumes. The employees helped evacuate more than 300 customers in less than three minutes. The team then called the families of the people that needed medical attention to explain the situation. A few hours later, when it was safe to enter the store, the short-staffed workers had to discard food that was exposed to the fumes and the store opened the next day as usual.

"We are very proud to give this award to the Jewel-Osco store in Antioch," said Gregory P. Josefowicz, senior vice president and general manager, Jewel Food Stores. "The employees showed great leadership and commitment and acted quickly to continue to serve the community. Their leadership and compassion for those around them is both a lesson and an inspiration for us all."

Nuccio, a resident of Gurnee, and Dunsing, a resident of Lake Zurich, acting on behalf of the store, were presented with the Medallion by David L. Maher, president and chief officer of American Stores Co. The company will also donate $1,000 to a local charity selected by the store team.

The Better Business Bureau of Chicago and Northern Illinois selected this year's Medallion winners, along with 20 finalists, from more than 250 nominees.

American Stores Co. is one of the nation's largest food and drug retailers. It operates 1,699 stores in 27 states.

United Way of Lake directors approves 1997-98 distribution of funds

United Way of Lake County Board of Directors approved the organization's 1997-98 distribution of funds to local health and human service agencies. Their approval was based on recommendations of the Allocation Steering Committee. The committee included the chairperson from each of eight allocation/evaluation panels made up of community volunteers.

Nearly 100 community volunteers met regularly from January to May reviewing agency programs and directing financial support to those programs which make the greatest impact on the critical needs in Lake County. Through this volunteer fund distribution process, United Way of Lake County is able to ensure that donors' dollars are allocated to quality services which are effectively and efficiently managed.

This year, with implementation of the newly redesigned fund distribution system, agency programs applied for funding based on their ability to impact one of United Way of Lake County's four community funding goals:

- Strengthen families, nurture children and youth;
- Promote physical and mental health and wellness;
- Increase long-term independence and self-sufficiency;
- Provide emergency food, shelter and crisis management services.

This new system is more focused on program results and impact. Previously, United Way of Lake County focused on the agency's program activities. A program might have been measured by the number of classes taught, hours of counseling received, amount of educational material distributed or the number of participants served.

Under the new system, United Way of Lake is focusing on how people actually benefit from the services, what they are learning and how their lives are changing for the better because of the services funded.

"The evaluation/allocation panels faced many difficult decisions with the newly redesigned fund distribution system. But they rose to the challenge and were able to focus on the most critical needs in Lake County," said Allocations Chair Raymond E. Britt, Jr., president of Lake Forest Graduate School of Management. "United Way is partnering with programs to make an even greater impact on community problems."

"United Way of Lake County will fund a total of 92 programs in the upcoming funding cycle, which runs July 1 to June 30, 1998. Of those programs, 18 received their full funding request and 30 received an increase in funding from last year. For a complete listing of allocations, contact United Way of Lake County is able to positively impact the health and human service needs of our community, directly serving one out of every three Lake County residents."

THIS WAY TO WEALTH

Alternative investments to the U.S. stock market

By TERRANCE R. GAERTNER

One of our readers writes, "With the U.S. stock market reaching new highs in each of the past several weeks, I am becoming a bit leery of putting additional monies into this market. Are there alternative investments that you can recommend that have the potential of the U.S. stock market but that might be more attractively priced?"

It is a good question and one that many of my clients are asking as well. Nobody really knows how long the U.S. stock market rally can keep going. What we do know is that the market goes both ways. Do not be fooled into thinking that the market is a one way street, always going up.

With this in mind, I have been recommending the following to my clients:

1. Be prepared to stay the course with any money that you have in the current market. We will experience down markets. Keep a long perspective. Make a reasonable commitment to the U.S. stock market and be prepared to stick with your commitment through both up and down markets.

2. If you decide to put new money into today's U.S. stock market, "dollar-cost-average" into the market. That is, put in equal amounts at regular intervals (i.e.; monthly) no matter where the market is.

I recommend that this be set up to happen automatically so you are not tempted to second guess the market by not investing one month while increasing your investment in other months.

Remember, its time, not timing that makes you money in the stock market.

3. Most important, diversify into the international stock market through solid international mutual funds.

Let me expand on this recommendation. Over the past eight years ended Dec. 31, 1996, the U.S. stock market has outperformed the major markets outside North America as measured by the EAFE (Europe, Australia, Far East Index) in six of those eight years.

However, if you look back a little further, you will see that the EAFE has outperformed the U.S. stock market in 15 of the past 25 years. Over the past 25 years, the EAFE index rose, 2,149 percent while the U.S. stock market index rose just 1,603 percent. Of the nine rolling 10 year periods since 1979, non-U.S. stock markets have outperformed the U.S. stock market in seven of those nine periods.

You can expect an international stock mutual fund to have more volatility than an U.S. stock fund because, besides the movement of the stock prices, there can be currency fluctuations. But when combined with a portfolio of U.S. stocks, adding international stocks actually reduces the overall portfolio's volatility. That's because the non-U.S. markets do not always move in sync with the U.S. market.

With the prices that we see in today's U.S. market, I believe that the non-U.S. markets offer better value for your investment dollar. Of course, investing internationally on your own is not easy.

I recommend that you use international mutual funds for you non-U.S. stock market investing. The fund that we use has outperformed the benchmark EAFE average, has outpaced the average international stock fund and, most surprisingly, has outperformed the average U.S. growth fund over its 13-year life.

Expanding your investment universe into the international arena, broadens your opportunities for attractive long-term growth. It also helps smooth out the peaks and valleys of market volatility.

Your financial advisor can help you select the international fund that will be right for your portfolio.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Baby boomers fuel the market

By NOAH SEIDENBERG

World War II officially ended in 1945. That year, thousands of GIs returned home to family life. It's no wonder that 1946 became the first explosive year of the baby boom.

In 1996, the first of those baby boomers turned 50, and an estimated 70 million more will reach that milestone in the next 10 years.

Much has been written about the negative impact the aging boomers might have on our future economy because of their needs for Social Security and Medicare. But precious little has been said about their positive contributions.

American Funds recently outlined a few economic benefits for which we can thank the baby boomers. For example, in 1953 one of the best investments on the market was Gerber Products.

A $1,000 investment in Gerber at the beginning of the year was worth $13,000 at the end.

In 1956, the Hula Hoop was the big money-maker. For 3-1/2 cents, a company named WHAMO stapled together the ends of a 9-foot plastic hose and sold it for a dollar.

By 1958, the boomers were riding bicycles. That Christmas was the best in company history for Schwinn Bicycle Co. In 1963, boomers put Capitol Records on top by buying Beatle records. Three years later, 70 million boomers rebelled against school dress codes in favor of blue jeans. That year — 1966 — Levi Strauss made it big.

In the 1970s, baby boomers were growing up, graduating from college and buying homes of their own. The stock market didn't do much, but real estate boomed (pardon the pun). In the 1980s, boomers put their kids in day care, bought computers and software, made long-distance phone calls and took to the air in jets. Guess which industries were the winners in that decade.

Baby boomers will continue to have positive effects on the economy and the investment markets. Someone in this country turns 50 every 7.5 seconds. During the next 10 years, that group will make more money than at any other time in their lives. They also will inherit an estimated $1 trillion.

Where will this money go?

Baby boomers have shown they prefer investing to saving. Mutual funds and common stocks are already their choices for 401(k) plans, profit sharing plans and personal investments, because boomers know that over long periods of time, stocks outperform other investments. For them, the days of relying solely on low-interest CDs and savings accounts are gone.

Strong corporate profits, combined with low inflation and interest rates, are driving the market up and increasing the demand for quality stocks. The last period like this was 1962 to 1966 — more than 30 years ago — when we experienced a similar environment of low inflation and low interest rates. Today, however, we have the added liquidity supplied by the huge population of baby boomers.

This time is different — and you can thank the baby boomers for that.

Chiefs return from Junior Olympics

Lake County Chiefs of all ages travel to play tough competition

The 15-year-old Lake County Chiefs, returned from hot, humid and rainy Florida where they participated in the 16-and-under Junior Olympics. Fifty-six teams from all over the United States converged on Fort Myers to play for the gold and to compete for a spot on the Junior Olympic Team going to Taiwan in July. The Chiefs came back from Florida with more experience than when they left. They met some stiff competition from teams that had local, state and even regional tryouts to fill their roster. Conditions were wet and humid but the fields were great. Games were played at the Lee County Stadium (Twins Complex), City of Palms (Red Sox Complex), Terry Park (former home of the Phillies and the Royals) and the Cape Coral Sports Complex. Games were televised and the highlights on the local evening news had every ball player watching. And many college and pro scouts were in the audience eyeing up future prospects.

The Chiefs came home with a 1-4. In the winning game the Chiefs defeated Fort Myers 7-1 with 9 hits by the team and pitching duties shared by six different pitchers. In the closest game for the Chiefs and one that the umpire stated was the best he had seen in the tournament, the Chiefs lost to the Ocean City Outlaws 1-0. David Villalobos, the Chief's fastest player, hesitated for one second before taking off from third base and was thrown out at the plate for the last out in the bottom of the seventh inning. The Chiefs also suffered losses from the New York All Stars, the Pittsburgh Stealers (both of which made it to the final 16 before they were eliminated) and the St. Petersburg Police Athletic Assn., the team that went on to win the tournament. The second place team was Miami Dade Metro; the third place team was the West Coast Yankees (California) and the Southern California Panthers.

Highlights of the tournament was the hitting of Mac Mansavage and Mike Bruszer of Deerfield High School. Mac batted .583 and Bruszer hit .357 for the tournament. Tim Gorski of Carmel and Brian Andelman of Deerfield High School, the 16 year old pitchers added to the roster, had the eye of the Olympic Committee as they battled the stiff competition. With this year's experience under their belts, the Chiefs vow to return next year as 16-year-old and come home with some gold.

In league play the Chiefs are now 9-1 with a win over Barrington 15-5. This weekends league play for the AABC League and next week begins playoffs that will lead to the AABC State Playoffs in Springfield. And over the weekend the Chiefs participated in the Triple Crown State Playoffs in Orland Park. They fared well in big wins of the Elmhurst Cougars (10-0) and 17-3 over the Longshots, a Downers Grove based team that was thought to be the hot team of the tournament because they are the CABA State Winners. In a game against Joliet Ingalls Park, the last inning was not played due to a time limit that became controversial when the umpires did not know the official starting time of the game. The Chiefs were declared the losers 7-4 after only six innings of play and that game became the tie breaker for the division win and Joliet went on to the championship round.

The 12-year-old Chiefs enjoyed a Firecracker Tournament in Thillens Stadium in Chicago over the 4th of July and lost in the CABA State Tournament. The team leave for Cooperstown this week to enjoy a week of ball at the Junior Hall of Fame Baseball Complex.

The 11-year-old Chiefs also played in the Firecracker Tournament at Thillens where they won the Home Run Derby with the bats of Matt Kristufek, Chris Kelly and J.D. Mynhier. The next stop for the 11-year olds Chiefs will be the Summerfest Tournament, this weekend in Wisconsin as they prepare for the AAU state playoffs the following weekend in Bloomington.

The 10-year-old Chiefs will be hosting a 12-team tournament at Fort Sheridan this weekend. After 21 games so far this season, the team hitting leaders are Nate Rittenberry (Gurnee) .613, Bobby Slowik (Vernon Hills) .458, Mike Synek (Northbrook) .408, and Casey Fijalkowski (Vernon Hills) .380. Defensive stars include Adam Kanka and Ryan Anderskow (Gurnee), and Daniel Flesh and Warren Miller-Renkin (Deerfield). After this weekends tournament they will keep busy in a Prospect Heights Tournament before traveling to Genoa City, Wisc. for the "Gateway to the Stars Tournament," July 26 and 27. On July 31, the team heads to Cherokee, Iowa to participate in the CABA National Championship.

ment with a strong offensive effort to defeat Team Chicago Boca Junior 3-0. In the second game of the day, the Blazers lost 1-0 to the Darlen Dynamo in a defensive struggle.

The Blazers faced the Naperville Lightning. The winner of this game would advance to the championship. The Blazers scored the only goal of the game in the first half on a rush to the net. The ball was knocked loose from the goalie and punched in for the score. In the second half, strong team defense and good goaltending preserved the shut out.

In the championship against Team Chicago Stingrays, the Stingrays jumped on the Blazers for three first half goals. The Blazers were able to shore up the defense in the second half, but could only score once making the final score 3-1 Stingrays.

PRESERVE: Gets 1,800 acres with '93 bond referendum

Voters passed a $30 million referendum in 1993 with $20 million for land acquisition and $10 million slotted for development of preserves.

The Forest Preserve has several purchases pending including land to complete the West Loop Trail, which should be finalized in the near future.

To date the Forest Preserve has spent $8.8 million on land acquisition and obtained 1,009 acres. Pending purchases will bring the total number of acres preserved to just under 1,800 acres with an average cost per acre of $8,726, according to Forest Preserve Director Steve Messerli. The completion of those additional purchases should deplete the remainder of the $20 million fund.

Messerli said while land acquisition funds will be dried up, once the 533-acre purchase is completed, the forest preserve continues to have many other options to use to purchase land, such as taking out loans, budgeting for purchase in the annual budget, issuing alternative revenue bonds and seeking another referendum. Both he and Buhai said discussion of a referendum for land purchase would probably be a year or two away.

"The forest preserve will always prioritize possible land acquisitions as they become available and act accordingly," Messerli said. "When we went to referendum in 1993, we told voters the cost per acre could be as high as $20,000, through donations and grants we have been able to obtain the land at a rate of $8,700 per acre. We think that is great given the price of land in Lake County."

Some members of the public have been critical of the forest preserve board for borrowing from interest on land acquisition funds to pay for development of the ThunderHawk Golf Course in Beach Park. In two separate votes, commissioners approved using interest funds from land acquisition for development.

According to Messerli, the forest preserve board agreed to transfer $4.6 million in interest earning funds from land acquisition bonds purchased in 1988 and 1989 in a 21-0 vote on April 26, 1996. The board further voted Nov. 12, 1996 to transfer $2 million in interest earning funds from land acquisition bonds purchased in 1993. That vote was 20-0.

Messerli said the internal loans will be repaid to the forest preserve in a 15-year period at the rate of 4 percent annually.

"It was a much more inexpensive way to borrow money than going to a lending institution," Messerli said. The forest preserve board could have chosen to issue alternative revenue bonds for the amount, but Messerli said that would have cost more than $2 million in interest.

"This way we get all the interest back," Messerli said.

Total cost of developing ThunderHawk is projected to be $8 million. The forest preserve purchased the site in the late 1970s or early 1980s according to Messerli with the intention of building a golf course on the site. The site was land-banked for a number of years before development began. ThunderHawk is estimated to create $1.5 million in revenue during its first year of operation. It will open for business in the spring of 1999.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I am a recent college graduate who was recruited by a well established corporation in early April. The corporation has invited me out for some intense interviewing process. I will be flying out to meet with these people just outside the Denver area in mid May. If I feel comfortable about meeting with the people I have spoken to over the past month. My concern is that the owner of the company is picking me up from the airport and I have not previously spoke to the man. I am afraid of being at a loss for what to say while in the car for 40 minutes and definitely concerned of having a lull in the conversation. Can you give me some tips on what topics to hit on in the case of this happening? Thank you.

G.A.—Lake Forest

Dear G.A.,

Good question and asked more often than you think. You can never go wrong by starting out the car ride by asking question such as...Have you always lived in the Denver area?...Has your corporation always resided in the Denver area? If you have been to Denver before, no matter how long ago, it is always safe to say things as...I had forgotten how beautiful the mountains are. Chances are, the individual will most likely enjoy talking about himself and his corporation, so you can never go wrong with lead-in statements such as I have offered. Let the conversation take its own path. Forty minutes will go by quick. Just remember that before words come out of your mouth, be sure they are what you want to person or people to hear. Good Luck!

Dear Search,

I have been working with an employment agency for the past 3 months. The counselor that I am working with seems to be sending me out on too many interviews that I am not qualified for. I have said on many occasion that I don't feel that job is right for me or that I am not qualified to do this. The continually send me out anyway, saying things like...You won't know unless you try. Quite often the person interviewing me will stop in the middle of an interview and say something like...I don't understand the service sending you here for this position. Do I have the right to say that I do not feel the position is right for me? I am afraid that if I say that, that the service will stop sending me to interviews that apparently are not landing me anything but wasted time. What do you suggest?

T.B.—Gurnee

I will guess that you are registered only with one employment service. While this may have sufficed for the short term, it appears as though you have had an insufficient 3 month search. Cut your losses now! Register with a reputable service and continue to search on your own as well. You absolutely have the right to turn down any interview you wish not to attend, but keep in mind, that a good employment counselor knows all about the company and position for which they send you out to. Once the decision has been made by you to go on the interview...stick to it.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

PET OF THE WEEK Beauty, Brains & Blue Eyes!

KAIYA

"KAIYA" is an incredibly beautiful female husky mix. Just four years old, Kaiya has a semi-long, shaggy, black/cream/silver coat that's luxuriously soft and dense to the touch. Perk ears, a fringe tail, and ice blue eyes complete this beautiful picture. But Kaiya's beauty goes far beyond appearance. This sturdily built mid-size dog has a calm and very sweet personality. She is alert and very attentive, and intelligence just shines out of those incredible blue eyes. Kaiya will respond well to training and her affectionate nature and love of people will make her an outstanding addition to your family. It's truly hard to understand how such a terrific dog has been at the shelter since July of 1996. If you like husky type dogs, you'll love our Kaiya. Come and see her in Cage 64, and give her the home and the family she deserves.

ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING & OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. GRATING IS RECOMMENDED WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY FOR THE FIRST YEAR IF NEEDED.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow up care and much more.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11am-5pm, seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.
